STEEL OFFER NIXED

Nickel Is Not Enough

. . . FOR UNION

Pittsburgh (AP)—The United Steelworkers Union rejected as completely inadequate Thursday an industry offer of limited contract improvements in exchange for an extension of a May 1 strike deadline.

Steelmakers offered five cents an hour, the Associated Press learned. They asked for a limited contract that would provide 60 days' extension or could run for six months.

16 Cents, 45 Days

In return, the million-member union demanded at least 16 cents an hour for an extension not to run more than 45 days. It would have accepted the 16 cents either in wages or fringe benefits.

USW President David J. McDonald announced rejection of the offer at a news conference after emerging from one of several sessions with two industry negotiators. He said talks have been recessed until sometime Monday.

At a later news conference, R. Conrad Cooper, chief company negotiator, said the companies offered to grant wage or fringe benefit increases, but did not give a specific amount.

Reopening Proviso

He said the companies asked for an extension beyond May 1 subject to reopening by either party on 60 days' notice after May 1.

The AP learned that Cooper told the union:

"We are willing to make a small down payment May 1. But we are willing to go no higher than two per cent."

The two per cent would be figured on steelworkers' total pay, including fringe benefits, which comes to $4.41 an hour.

This would have come to about nine cents an hour under an original industry proposal of a year's interim agreement. If figures out to about five cents for six months.

House Divided

Cooper said the union's internal troubles have hampered neogiations. "We have encountered difficulties in dealing with a house divided against itself."

He referred to the union's presidential election in which McDonald reportedly was defeated by I. W. Abel, union secretary-treasurer. The official results have not been announced yet.

Cooper said, "We were handed a package of so-called wage and benefit adjustments." He labeled them a prepostrous assembly of proposals, obviously the result of a massive union force with divided leadership."

Talks have been deadlocked for weeks over the industry's refusal to answer union demands for contract improvements that would cost $1 an hour or more over a three-year term.

Mississippi's Worst Coming

By The Associated Press

Out of their banks more than a mile in Minnesota now getting the brunt of the spring flooding—the muddy waters of the Mississippi, with tributary streams, engulfed sections of Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa and North Dakota.

The raging flood waters —with the worst yet to come—drove additional hundreds of families from their homes Thursday, swelling the thousands evacuated earlier.

Dozen Dead

Twelve deaths have been attributed to the floods thus far —10 in Minnesota and two in Wisconsin—and damage has been estimated upward of $20 million in Minnesota alone.

The Mississippi is expected to reach a crest of 27 feet, highest in history, at St. Paul Saturday. This is 13 feet above flood stage. The Minneapolis crest is placed at 21 feet, five feet above flood level.

The Weather Bureau reported the Mississippi was above flood level Thursday at all except two or three gauging stations from Aitkin, Minn., to Caruthersville, Mo.

Ripley To Keithsburg

It said river levels at St. Paul, at 25 5 feet Thursday, and at Hastings and Red Wing, Minn , already were two or three feet above any previously known stages. Previous record high stages will be surpassed also at all points from Camp Ripley, Minn., to Keithsburg, Ill., between April 17 and April 27, the bureau said.

While some low-lying sections of St. Paul were under water, the main business area and most homes, situated on high ground, were considered safe from damage. Earlier, about 300 residents were driven from their homes in lower sections of the city.

Most areas of Minneapolis also were considered out of reach of the flood waters.

Below St. Paul, however, most riverside communities appeared to be in for a wet Easter weekend as the Weather Bureau revised upward its crest forecasts for downstream areas.

3-5-Day Crest

The Weather Bureau warned that the crest probably would continue at its high mark for three to five days.

An estimated 3,000 volunteers in the St. Paul area patrolled both sides of the river, strengthening water barriers and patching leaks.

In Wisconsin, Gov. Warren P. Knowles designated eight more counties bordering the swollen Mississippi as disaster areas, bringing the total to nine.

"The whole situation is desperate." Knowles said after surveying the flooded area by plane.

La Crosse Under

At La Crosse, Wis., where the river is expected to crest at near 18 feet next week, some streets already were under a foot of water and utility crews were reported preparing to shut off gas service in some sections as precaution.

City officials estimated about 8,000 residents would have to be evacuated from their homes at the height of the flood.

About 400 residents of low-lying areas in Prairie du Chien Wis., left their homes when the river reached 17.6 feet, a half foot short of flood stage.

Rainfall up to more than an inch fell in Wisconsin Wednesday night and early Thursday, aggravating the flood situation

Farther downstream, Illinois and Iowa communities also prepared to meet the crest of the flood late next week.

'Louisianans Must Conquer Blindness'

Bogalusa, La (AP) — Louisiana citizens must be more than "blind and senseless atoms" in mankind's struggle to advance itself, Gov. John McKeithen said Thursday night.

In what was billed as a major speech touching on Bogalusa's civil rights pressures and its Ku Klux Klan activities, the governor's talk was cautiously oblique.

"We owe tomorrow our best efforts," he told the Chamber of Commerce banquet. "And nothing, NOTHING must stop us—nothing must make us afraid."

Pickets, Counterpickets

The governor's speech came after a day in which Negro pickets and white counterpickets marched in front of downtown stores

One Negro, Charles Williams, 25, was arrested. Police said he knocked a placard from a white picket's hand. Negroes said the white man dropped the sign. Williams was charged with vagrancy and disturbing the peace.

"Equal job opportunity" pickets were posted by the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League at seven stores. At three of them, white pickets, spurred by rebel yells, surged forward with their placards.

Negro signs were on the theme, "We don't buy where we can't work."

The counterpicket signs read, "White man, give this merchant your business," "All these natives need is a witch doctor and drinks" and "Support this business place. Fight communism."

The Negro pickets marched with solemn cadence with unchanging expression. City law limited each side to two pickets per store.

Ten volunteers from Berkeley, Calif., four of them University of Californi students, were put to work by the league. They planned a week of classes on the civil rights law and voter registration.

Await Word

Leaders of the league and the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) awaited word from city officials on their proposal for a superconference here to try to negotiate racial problems "rather than have them settled in the streets."

Board Defeats West-End Tie Rehearing Bid

The Nebraska Power Review Board late Thursday overruled twin motions for a rehearing in the board's decision authorizing Consumers Public Power District to construct a high-voltage transmission line in western Nebraska

Board action was taken on a 3-1 vote, with Chairman William Norton of Osceola, Larry Donegan of Lincoln and Ed Crowley of Kearney voting in the majority.

Dissenting was Thomas Eason of North Bend. Sheldon Bernstein of Omaha was absent

Motions were filed by Loup River Public Power District and Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District. Loup had also applied to construct the line.

Action by the board clears the path for an appeal to the State Supreme Court, if Loup or Platte so desire.

'Christian Unity' Theme Of Lenten Services In Hebron

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Hebron—There'd be no news in the 402 persons who packed the Catholic Church here for a Lenten service—except that two-thirds were Protestants

"Christian unity" was the theme of five interdenominational services that seemed certain to have spiritual impact years beyond this Easter. Catholic and Christian congregations, the Presbyterian and Episcopalians and Methodists, all feel the cross is closer because they have stepped toward it together.

"Our clergymen agree that these joint meetings have done more for the spirit of the church than was accomplished in years" enthused the Rev. Gerald E. Housh, Christian minister and former Lincolnite.

"Most of us feel it's something that should have been started long ago," chimed in Msgr. C K Keenan on behalf of his Catholic parishioners. "I haven't heard a single word of criticism "

Other pastors co-operating included the Rev. LaRoy Seaver, Methodist; the Rev. Warren Herrick, Episcopalian; and the Rev. Jerrold Aspengren, Presbyterian. Only one church did not participate.

Their mood set by individual services on Ash Wednesday, the weekly meetings were rotated in site and speakers. By the time each faith returned to its own Maundy Thursday worship, there was a new familiarity with such forms as the homily and litany

"Such a confrontation causes any believer to rethink his position," continued the Rev. Mr Housh "For example, my own church dates back only to 1832, and learning more of the older traditions enriched my understanding of them as part of my own heritage."

Already sprouting from the first ecumenical success is an inter-church youth retreat planned by the five denominations. Catholic students are to see a demonstration of immersion by the Christian pastor, two young adult classes are talking of monthly get togethers, laymen have asked for a series of joint panel discussions as a link between Lenten services that will become annual.

Laymen, by the way, have had a significant part in all the programs. Participants included Jack Chapman, Presbyterian, Richard Boylston, Catholic; Richard Jiskra, Methodist; Marlowe Huber, Christian: and Robert Thomas, Episcopal.

"I think one Catholic layman summarized the feeling of just about everyone," noted the Rev. Mr. Housh. "Almost tearfully, he said this was the first time he and his neighbors ever had the opportunity to worship together."

Lincoln Expanding EOA Projects

. . . AGENCIES MAKING LAST MINUTE ARRANGEMENTS

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Last minute arrangements by a number of Lincoln agencies may add several more programs to the city's participation in President Johnson's war on poverty

Youth corps, adult education, enrichment centers and work-study programs are all in the mill seeking federal approval and authorization of funds under the Economic Opportunity Act (EOA) of 1964. In addition, there are several projects still in the process of having applications prepared in order to meet deadlines.

Even if only part of the Lincoln projects are approved, there will be opportunities available by this summer for persons ranging in age from pre-schoolers to adults from deprived neighborhoods or families

Direct Grants

EOA provides for direct federal grants to communities to finance programs to combat poverty with 90% paid by U S. government funds and 10% from the local agencies handling the projects

In March it was reported that the University of Nebraska had received $1.25 million for a work-study program in which students would be given part-time jobs to help pay for their education. A total of $140,000 was to be allocated for the present semester and $1,115,886 for the next school year.

Dr. Edward Lundak, director of scolarships and financial aid at NU, reported that 550 students—those with real financial need are given preference—are employed this semester by both the University and a YMCA project for underprivileged boys.

Paying Share

The University is paying its 10% out of NU Foundation funds, according to Lundak. The local agency's share in an EOA program can be "in kind" payments providing facilities and services rather than actual dollars

Several other potential work study program sponsors are now making application for a share of the $1.25 million to employ an additional 1,470 University students in the next year.

Applications which Dr Lundak feels are "very likely to be approved before June 1 even though they are late," include those from St. Monica's Home for unwed mothers Project Hope—an organization which deals with alcoholics, Soil and Water Commission, Fish and Wildlife Division, National Park Service, and a YWCA program similar to the YMCA.

Council Takes Lead

Since all community action programs under EOA except for Project Head Start can only be initiated through a community coordinating body, the mayor and county commissioners requested the Lincoln Community Council take sponsorship of a group to study area needs and to make the applications for project funds.

Harold Baker, council executive-secretary, expects the council to authorize the formation of a Lancaster Community Action Council of 50 prominent leaders and area representatives. This council, he said, will draw up a budget and description of a study and apply for funds to do it.

Project Head Start, a program to prepare pre-schoolers for a better school experience, was initiated by the Lincoln Community Council's incomplete application Save American Youth (SAY) under Dr. Wiley Russell of Nebraska Wesleyan University and the NU Child Development Center under Dr. Harold Abel, a regional consultant for Project Head Start, have already filed sponsoring applications.

To Meet Saturday

Plans for the Lincoln Council of Churches' participation in Project Head Start should be set after a Saturday morning meeting of community leaders and organizations determining unmet needs, according to the Rev. Mr. Carroll Lemon.

Dr. Abel reported that all Head Start projects will be approved by May 15 and must start sometime after July 6. Cities have been allocated a certain sum, and approved units will receive percentages of that money.

Classes for adults, 18 and over, who have less than a 6th grade education could start immediately, according to Dr. Chester H. Gausman, director of vocational and adult education for the Lincoln Public Schools, upon the approval of an application for $20,000 to administer the EOA program aimed at persons who cannot find good jobs.

A Problem

It is always a problem, however, to get these people to participate in classes which would be "strictly a basic, academic education," Dr. Gausman said. The application was made through the State Department of Education in January.

Another phase of the Economic Opportunity Act, the Neighborhood Youth Corps, is being planned for Lincoln by the Public Schools, according to Supt. Steven N. Watkins. A work training program, it provides part-time employment within the schools for students "showing a need for financial aid."

A Lincoln survey indicated that 500 students were eligible for such jobs and that 370 could be placed in the city's three high schools alone.

Ron has been named Aurora's ambassador to the two countries by that town's mayor.

The pair, among 80 newspaper boys taking the trip, left New York Thursday evening and are due to arrive in Lisbon for a day of sightseeing at 10 a.m. Friday.

Following that they spend another two days visiting Portugal before going on to Spain, where they'll visit Madrid, Seville, the Costa Del Sol (the Spanish Riviera) for a day at the beach, Granda, Toledo and El Escorial.

They'll return to the United States Tuesday, April 27, and will have a one-day VIP tour of the World's Fair there before coming back to Nebraska.

Don is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin A. Mowry of Beatrice and Ron is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Strong of Aurora.

Board Defeats West-End Tie Rehearing Bid

The Nebraska Power Review Board late Thursday overruled twin motions for a rehearing in the board's decision authorizing Consumers Public Power District to construct a high-voltage transmission line in western Nebraska.

Board action was taken on a 3-1 vote, with Chairman William Norton of Osceola, Larry Donegan of Lincoln and Ed Crowley of Kearney voting in the majority.

Dissenting was Thomas Eason of North Bend. Sheldon Bernstein of Omaha was absent.

Motions were filed by Loup River Public Power District and Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District. Loup had also applied to construct the line.

Action by the board clears the path for an appeal to the State Supreme Court, if Loup or Platte so desire.

Youth Injured; Car Hit Curb

A Lincoln youth suffered head injuries early Friday morning when he was thrown from his car when it went over a curb.

The boy, who was not immediately identified, was unconscious when taken to Bryan Memorial Hospital shortly before 1 a.m.

Police said the car, northbound on 48th St went over the curb near Van Dorn. The door flew open and the boy fell out, striking his head on the pavement, police said.

Lincoln Elks Sell Former WE Building

The former Western Electric Building at 13th and Q owned by the Elks Building Co., has been sold to Evelyn J. Lavaty, according to a deed filed Thursday in the Lancaster County Register of Deeds office.

There were no revenue stamps on the deed for approximate purchase price; and Dan Lavaty, president of The Lavaty Co., declined to reveal the price.

He said as yet plans for the building "are not finalized," but that the building will be developed.

"This is all I can say at this time," Lavaty said.

Big Raid Blasts Red Stronghold

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—The biggest U.S. Vietnamese air raid of the war tore up a Viet Cong stronghold in jungles near the Cambodian frontier Thursday and walled the sky with smoke and flames. The Red headquarters area was reported left in ruins.

An armada of 230 planes joined in a dawn-to-dusk attack on a Communist zone of about seven square miles in Tay Ninh province, 65 miles northwest of Saigon.

Navy First

For the first time, U.S. Navy planes took part in a combat operation within South Viet Nam. Flying from the carriers Coral Sea and Midway, they teamed up with U.S. Army, Air Force and Marine aircraft and South Vietnamese fighter-bombers in a strike that a U.S. spokesman said seemed to be one of the more productive.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, had called for a maximum effort and the armada assembled for the job exceeded even the most massive used in the raids against North Viet Nam. This was a 220-plane strike force that hit targets north of the border last Friday.

A U.S. spokesman said the day's objective was a region about 3½ miles long and 2 miles wide—"a maze of blotchy woods, with Viet Cong gardens and numerous trails visible."

Ground fire was described as surprisingly light. Two Navy planes were hit. Each received one bullet hole.

21 Hit North

Meanwhile, a 21-plane force carried on attacks north of the 17th Parallel. Six U.S. Air Force F105 fighter-bombers—supported by 15 other jets—conducted an armed reconnaissance mission over Highways 7 and 8 and dropped about nine tons of bombs on a river landing site at Muong Sen, 120 miles southwest of Hanoi.

A U.S. spokesman said the attack on the landing was moderately successful.

Germans Ready To Aid LBJ's Asia Program

. . BRANDT WINDS UP U.S. VISIT

Washington (AP)—West Germany is ready to join in President Johnson's multination plan to combat hunger and poverty in Southeast Asia as soon as the project takes shape, West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt said Thursday.

Talking to newsmen at the windup of a three-day visit here, Brandt noted that West Germany already has provided South Viet Nam with economic aid. And he declared: "We are fully prepared to do more."

Moral Backing

Brandt made his comments after saying it is necessary to provide "moral support for President Johnson's firmness and determination to bring about peace with freedom in Southeast Asia."

The German mayor was asked why he was speaking only in terms of moral support. He replied that West Germany is not asked for military contribution, and he added: "I think our country should be rather careful with military obligations which go beyond the Atlantic Alliance."

Support Reaffirmed

U. S. officials disclosed that President Johnson in his talks with Brandt reaffirmed U.S. determination to defend the rights and the freedom of the people of Berlin.

The officials said Johnson pledged also U.S. efforts to seek a just and lasting solution of the unresolved German reunification problem.

Johnson expressed his admiration for the courage and resolution of the people of Berlin in the face of Communist pressure and provocation, the officials added.

Civilians Clap As Terrorist Is Executed

Da Nang, South Viet Nam (UPI)—Hundreds of civilians, including many children, watched from rooftops and tree branches Thursday as a firing squad executed a Viet Cong terrorist in a soccer stadium.

Le Dua, the terrorist, had been seized in an attempt to bomb an American billet.

Some 2,000 civilians, barred from entering the stadium, vied for vantage points to witness the execution.

A ripple of applause could be heard from the spectators as a single volley from the 12-man firing squad ripped into the confessed terrorist's body.

Anti-Confiscation

Bonn (AP)—The press council, a voluntary body for self-control of the German press, has rejected a West German government measure that would permit confiscation of publications in time of emergency, a government spokesman reported. The council contends present laws are sufficient.

LIFE AMIDST WRECKAGE

Clifford Mooday of Shannondale, Ind., put up this cross in his backyard when his daughter, now 11, caught pneumonia as a baby. He said he promised God that if He would let her live, he would erect the cross and never take it down. When a deadly tornado ripped through the area last Sunday, it veered just north of the cross and missed the Mooday house. "It just shows what the power of God can do," Mooday said.

Britain Can't Hike Help Much More

Washington (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson voiced strong support Thursday for President Johnson's Viet Nam policy but indicated Britain cannot do much more now in stepping up material aid.

"I think everybody understands we are now heavily committed with 50,000 troops in Malaysia and in an important peacekeeping role in the Middle East," Wilson explained when asked about aid to the guerrilla-pressed Saigon regime.

Johnson and Wilson spoke to newsmen after an hour's discussion highlighting a one-day visit by the British chief.

The United States has been soliciting support from other free world countries in the Viet Nam campaign, and Britain has been among the two dozen nations providing some non-combat assistance.

Basis Agreement

But basically Washington and London agree that Viet Nam is of prime concern to the United States while Britain bears the major role in defending Malaysia, her former colony, against Indonesian attacks.

The main emphasis of Wilson's brief stopover at the U.S. capital was in the economic field. The British Labor leader and former professor is an advocate of international economic cooperation and improvement of the monetary system in financing trade. It was his second visit here since taking office last October.

He had separate appointments with Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor and a general meeting with top government financial officers at the British embassy before heading back to London.

He sandwiched in a session with two visiting West German leaders, West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt and Fritz Erler, foreign affairs specialist for the Social Democratic Party.

Poses With Johnson

Posing with Wilson for pictures in the presidential office, Johnson described the talks as cordial and fruitful and voiced appreciation for "the friendship and support of our allies particularly the distinguished prime minister and the British people."

The British leader indicated that London, like Washington, is studying Cambodia's proposal for another Geneva conference of the Southeast Asia powers but is not yet ready to act on it. Cambodia made the proposal last month and Moscow has shown interest in it.

Two Accused Spies' Plea Is Innocent

Alexandria, Va. (UPI)—A Pentagon sergeant and his former Army buddy pleaded innocent Thursday and demanded a jury trial on charges they sold U.S. military secrets to the Russians for 11 years.

Both seemed calm and self-possessed as Federal District Judge Oren R. Lewis set trial for Sept. 7 on the spying charges that carry a maximum penalty of death. He ordered them continued held in lieu of $20,000 bond each.

The accused are Sgt. Robert Lee Johnson, 43, a crew-cut former Army courier, and James Allen Mintkenbaugh, 46, once an Army sergeant who now resides in San Martin, Calif.

They were arrested April 5—Johnson while on duty in the Pentagon and Mintkenbaugh at a relative's home in Castro Valley, Calif. They were indicted the following day by a federal grand jury in Richmond, Va.

The two are accused of conspiring to deliver defense information to the Soviet Union, of conspiring to obtain defense information, and of acting as foreign agents without registering with the secretary of state.

The maximum punishment for conviction on the latter two charges is 15 years imprisonment and a $20,000 fine.

Vast Sheet Of Ice Underlies Moon Surface, Expert Feels

Dr. Thomas Gold of Cornell University told a conference on the lunar surface that recent radar and optical studies, combined with analysis of photographs from the Ranger moon probe, strongly support this conclusion.

Gold said the new information indicates that except for relatively small areas hard as rock, much of the moon's surface consists of fine material only a fraction of the density of rock.

Gold said this sediment may have accumulated and compacted in the depressions in the moon's surface, and thus may have blocked the escape of water working up toward the surface.

Gold said water could not penetrate freely to the surface in part because the extreme cold on the surface would freeze it.

The resulting underground ice, being plastic, would account for many of the crevices and depressions that appear, in Ranger pictures, to lie perhaps 50 feet below the moon surface.

Strong Reflection

Gold said radar photographs of the moon show that the young craters—those created in relatively recent times — tend to be strong radar reflectors, while the rest of the moon has very poor radar reflectivity.

"Much of the moon has a layer of at least a few meters with a density not that of rock but two or more times down the scale," Gold said.

Dr. Ewen Whitaker of the University of Arizona said the moon's surface is cracked and lined in a remarkably uniform grid pattern.

Dr. Harold C. Urey of the University of California at La Jolla said he was greatly surprised to find in the Ranger pictures so little volcanic action.

Urey said that if the studies under way bring proof that the moon was a separate object captured by the earth and then detached from it, current worries about contaminating the moon with man-made rockets will be largely groundless.

Russ Surface-To-Air-Missile Site 'Going Up Near Hanoi'

Washington (AP) — A site for launching Russian-type surface-to-air anti-aircraft missiles is being built near the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi, according to reports reaching Washington.

U.S. sources said Thursday night that they have no evidence that Soviet rockets have been shipped to the site yet, but presumably the hardware would follow once the launching pads are completed.

Moscow has been promising aid to its Communist ally and U.S. officials have been speculating that it would be in the form of anti-aircraft defense. The Soviets are said to have put 24 SAM sites in Cuba which are now Cuban-manned.

The Russian SAMs are capable of shooting down very high flying planes.

Introduction of SAMS to North Viet Nam would bring a new element both militarily and politically.

On the military side, American planes have been able to fly into North Viet Nam at higher altitudes relatively safely because the ground fire against them has been mainly effectively only at low altitudes.

Politically, the appearance of SAMS would indicate a greater Soviet involvement in the conflict—especially since the advanced missiles and related radar would presumably require Russian technicians.

Missouri Basin Water Pollution Lab Advocated

Omaha (AP) — The Missouri River States Committee wants a water pollution research laboratory located somewhere in the Missouri Basin

The States Committee, which is made up of the governors of the 10 Missouri River basin states or their representatives, adopted a resolution requesting the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to locate such a laboratory in the Missouri Basin.

This laboratory was described as a regional facility.

The resolution described the Missouri as the longest river in the nation serving some 529,000 square miles of land. It said that water is the lifeblood of the area and the quality of the water must be maintained.

The resolution took cognizance of a 1961 law calling on the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to establish field laboratories and research facilities in various sections of the country to prevent and control water pollution.

The committee held over for revision a second resolution opposing a $100 million reduction in federal appropriations for soil and water conservation programs.

Commission Endorsed

The committee also endorsed in principle the proposal now before Congress to establish state-federal river basin commissions. And it favored the Senate version of a section of the Water Resources Planning Act dealing with the establishment of such commissions.

Another resolution supports the revision of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act as proposed in the amended version of S-4 and reported out by the House Committee on Public Works. This version leaves the establishment of water quality standards to the state, increases the ceilings on grants for state-federal projects and adds more funds for projects where the states participate with the federal government.

Gov. Frank Morrison of Nebraska presided at the sessions. Other governors present were Nils Boe of South Dakota and William L. Guy of North Dakota.

Services Set Saturday For W. VanSickle

Services for Wilton VanSickle, 84, founder and president of VanSickle Glass and Paint Co. and VanSickle Investment Co. will be held 10:30 a. m. Saturday at Westminster Presbyterian Church Chapel. Burial will be in Wyuka Cemetery.

Mr. VanSickle, who died Thursday, started manufacturing mirrors and art glass in 1900 and later added paints. VanSickle Glass and Paint Co. was sold to Interstate Glass Co. of Omaha in 1959. He retained VanSickle Investment Co., a real estate business.

Mr. VanSickle was president of the Nebraska Manufacturers Assn. and in 1936 became the first president of its successor, Associated Industries of Nebraska.

He was a 60-year member of the National Paint, Oil and Varnish Association, a member of the National Association of Manufacturers, the National Association of Glass Jobbers and Distributors, and the National Federation of Independent Businesses, of which he was a former district chairman.

Mr. VanSickle was a 50-year member of the Masonic Blue Lodge and a charter member of Craftsman-Lodge No. 314, the Scottish Rite, and Shrine.

He was a past president of the Lincoln Automobile Club, Lincoln Safety Council, Lancaster County Humane Society and Rotary.

Mr. VanSickle was also a member of Westminster Presbyterian Church. He and Mrs. VanSickle celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary in 1963.

Brogden Outlines Steps Necessary To Keep 'Workable Program' Going

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

City Planning Director Douglas Brogden told the Better Lincoln Committee Thursday that the city has some work ahead to insure recertification next year of the recently approved "Workable Program".

The program, designed by the city and approved by the federal government, provides for federal assistance in preventing and eliminating poor housing and blight areas.

Brogden said that between now and April 1, 1966, the city should:

—intensify efforts to analyze specific neighborhoods to see why they are sub-standard.

—strengthen the existing minimum standard housing ordinance.

—enlarge on a community program to relocate families displaced by governmental action in decent, safe and sanitary housing within their means.

Brogden said this could be accomplished by actions ranging from establishing a centralized relocation office to doing "fairly extensive field work" in the area.

He also mentioned that the federal government suggests the need for more specific standards for street development.

Brogden said that the government is becoming "tight" regarding federal assistance to eliminate blight areas because many cities have paid lip service to workable programs in the past and have not followed them.

He suggested that the Better Lincoln Committee, as a demonstration of community participation in the project, could serve as a sounding board and make recommendations concerning the scope of the entire workable program.

Specific actions directed toward recertification of the workable program will be presented to the City Council for its decision, Brogden said.

Voc Educational Researchers Attending Seminar At Center

Specialists in research in vocational and technical education from New Hampshire to New Mexico, from California to Florida, are attending a training program for researchers in colleges and state departments throughout the country, held at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education this week.

The advanced national Seminar on Research in vocational and technical education is sponsored by the University of Nebraska Department of Agricultural Education and is financed by a contract between the Occupational Research and Planning Program of the U.S. Office of Education and the University of Illinois.

Four such seminars are being conducted this spring, with other seminars located at the University of Minnesota, Michigan State University and the Ohio State University.

Approximately 40 vocational educators are participating in the seminar, including several from the University of Nebraska—Professors Hazel Anthony, Gordon Culver, Max Hansen, and James Horner. Most of the participants attended a beginning seminar at Pennsylvania State University last year.

Horner, University associate professor of agricultural education, is chairman of the planning for the seminar.

David S. Bushnell, director of the Occupational Research and Planning Program of the U.S. Office of Education, Washington, made the initial presentation, speaking on the field of motivation.

Several University of Nebraska professors presented and will present programs in their area of specialization.

Brogden said that between now and April 1, 1966, the city should:

—intensify efforts to analyze specific neighborhoods to see why they are sub-standard.

—strengthen the existing minimum standard housing ordinance.

—enlarge on a community program to relocate families displaced by governmental action in decent, safe and sanitary housing within their means.

Brogden said this could be accomplished by actions ranging from establishing a centralized relocation office to doing "fairly extensive field work" in the area.

He also mentioned that the federal government suggests the need for more specific standards for street development.

Brogden said that the government is becoming "tight" regarding federal assistance to eliminate blight areas because many cities have paid lip service to workable programs in the past and have not followed them.

He suggested that the Better Lincoln Committee, as a demonstration of community participation in the project, could serve as a sounding board and make recommendations concerning the scope of the entire workable program.

Specific actions directed toward recertification of the workable program will be presented to the City Council for its decision, Brogden said.

Voc Educational Researchers Attending Seminar At Center

Specialists in research in vocational and technical education from New Hampshire to New Mexico, from California to Florida, are attending a training program for researchers in colleges and state departments throughout the country, held at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education this week.

The advanced national Seminar on Research in vocational and technical education is sponsored by the University of Nebraska Department of Agricultural Education and is financed by a contract between the Occupational Research and Planning Program of the U.S. Office of Education and the University of Illinois.

Four such seminars are being conducted this spring, with other seminars located at the University of Minnesota, Michigan State University and the Ohio State University.

Approximately 40 vocational educators are participating in the seminar, including several from the University of Nebraska—Professors Hazel Anthony, Gordon Culver, Max Hansen, and James Horner. Most of the participants attended a beginning seminar at Pennsylvania State University last year.

Horner, University associate professor of agricultural education, is chairman of the planning for the seminar.

David S. Bushnell, director of the Occupational Research and Planning Program of the U.S. Office of Education, Washington, made the initial presentation, speaking on the field of motivation.

Several University of Nebraska professors presented and will present programs in their area of specialization.

A Complex World

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Sometimes the most simple things can become the most complex. A housewife can bake a cake and nine times out of ten it will be routine business. But then one day the cake-making gets mixed in with telephone calls, visits by neighbors, a shortage of eggs, an empty powered sugar box, an oven on the blink or any number of other things. When the job is done, it is a great relief but the product is far off the usual standards.

Changing the light bulb ought to be a pretty simple matter but it can get complicated, too. When the protective globe is removed it can be dropped and when that happens, you are in a fix. A quick visit to several stores will turn up literally hundreds of kinds of globes but none to fit the fixture you have. You can solve the problem, all right, by buying a new fixture but that is a great deal more than the bulb-changing plan you started out to execute. It is a mistake, too, to think that sticky situation can develop only around the home.

Compounded Fracture

The same thing happens frequently in government. Take, for instance, the recent action of the Legislature in turning down a bill in committee that would have permitted Lincoln to issue revenue bonds to acquire and operate off-street parking facilities. The measure died on a 5-to-2 committee roll call.

The strange part of this is that parking is a major problem in the downtown area of Lincoln and is a problem the local government would like to do something about. Adding to the mixture is the fact that the voice of the Legislature is frequently heard in defense of local action as an answer to be preferred over higher levels of government.

Why the committee involved has seen fit to deny Lincoln a chance to meet one of its problems is something we don't understand. Perhaps the committee is so overwhelmed with the concept of free enterprise that it just cannot bear the thought of government in the parking business. But has it stopped to examine the effects to date of this kind of theory? There are many elements to the question but the net result is that private enterprise has not solved the problem and shows no inclination of doing so. Private enterprise is going to stick with the profit motive in parking, even if it kills it to do so, which it is likely to do as the years go by. Some might say that if private enterprise sees fit to injure itself, then that is the business of such enterprise and not the concern of government.

Of course, that idea is shot full of holes already in so many ways that it will hold no water, at all. Private enterprise cannot tear up the streets, it cannot operate in dangerous structures, it cannot work its employes indiscriminately, it cannot promote unhealthy conditions and it cannot do a great many other things. In short, elements of private enterprise operating individually cannot do things that are a detriment to such enterprise as a whole. Thus does the outline of a different kind of theory become visible—the theory of group action to achieve ends that are not attainable on an individual basis.

This is the theory the city seeks to invoke in attempting to get into the parking business. It is attempting to be the vehicle by which a problem in downtown Lincoln can be solved when that problem has not been solved for years in any other way. It is attempting to protect the tax base on which the city rests and to maintain the economic strength and stability of a major part of the city.

At the same time, it is attempting to solve a downtown traffic problem for which it is solely responsible by directing traffic to the fringes rather than the center of the commercial hub or core of the city. It would like to dump this traffic into selected places around the edges of this hub rather than piling it up in the middle.

This makes a lot of sense, too, and hasn't anything to do with private enterprise in the primary sense, but it obviously hasn't gotten through to the Legislature. It is precisely because of this kind of failure at local and state levels of government that the federal government is in the many local affairs it is. For Lincoln, it should consider now that the Legislature has only heaped additional responsibility upon it, not absolved it of anything. The Legislature has not concluded the matter for the city.

Matter Not Finished

The city is currently engaged, through the work of a citizens committee, in a revision of its home rule charter. Clearly called for now is a charter change that would permit revenue bond issues for off-street parking facilities. It may or may not fail at the ballot box but the effort needs to be made.

First Reappraisal Returns

An overall 58.89 percent increase in appraised value of Nance County real estate has put the spotlight on a big part of the state's tax problem. The figures are the product of Nance County compliance with a new state law requiring a reappraisal of all property in each county within a specific period of time.

This is the first such reappraisal completed under terms of the new law. By 1969, every county in the state will have had to at least entered into a contract for such a reappraisal.

The immediate problem is what to do about about such situations as Nance County, the first to come under the gun. If its reappraisal is left to stand, the citizens of that county will be paying an awesome penalty in state taxes in comparison with counties that take no such action until 1969.

Thus, Nance County citizens could be paying higher taxes than other citizens for up to five or six years. Other counties are not now likely to hurry in with a reappraisal just to make things even. They will generally delay the action for as long as the law will allow.

One alternative would be for the State Board of Equalization to reduce Nance County assessments but to do so would openly admit to the false valuations that exist throughout the state. Or, the state board could up all other counties. The trouble with that is that the board has hardly any factual basis on which to do this. It seems obvious that the Legislature needs to make a change in the law to provide for a uniform, statewide effective date for new assessments arrived at under terms of the 1963 reappraisal law.

Russia's Mysterious Beeps

The past several years Moscow has been singularly silent about announcing new inventions, like suspenders, bicycles and the American flag. For a while it looked as though the Russians had almost everything in the bag.

But Moscow got back in the hitting order last week, and we fear was a little overtrained. It asserted that it was picking up beeps which certainly were from outer space and probably meant that some living things out on the other side of the cosmos were trying to tell us something.

Later it faced an incredulous world with a more temperate statement. It said it had heard something.

Well so what? There are millions of non scientific wives who hear burglars downstairs every night. And there are millions of husbands who may not have much faith in such announcements but wouldn't think of going down to see.

Aside from matching our reports of flying saucers we lay no store whatever over Russia's sudden communication with individuals in outer space. It is an incredible assumption. No outer space creature with enough sense to hurl a message across any number of light years would be dull witted enough to want any part of this troubled planet. We can't hardly live in it ourselves, and we are not very bright. A well ordered universe would leave us strictly alone.

Our only reaction to such an astral message that might come our way would be a frantic armament effort and prompt declaration of war. And we wouldn't quit until we had knocked some innocent planet out of orbit.

We don't know what evidence Moscow has, but we have good evidence of our own. We have been reading Dick Tracy and Moon Maid, the only celestial figure we know of who got friendly enough to marry a junior detective. She is having a terrible time.

Iowa's New Speed Limit Bill

A committee of the lower house of the Iowa legislature has voted out a bill to reduce the speed limits on all highways except the Interstate.

The maximum on primary roads has been dropped from 70 to 65 miles per hour for daytime travel for passenger cars. But the daytime limit for trucks has been raised from 50 to 55. Night time limits have been dropped to 55 miles per hour to 50.

A maximum speed of 50 miles an hour day or night for trucks as well as passenger cars scheduled for secondary highways, barring a few exceptions where road conditions equal those of primary highways.

There are good points to such a bill. One answers the question of where does all that speed get you? There really isn't much difference driving 65 or 60 miles an hour, a matter of a very few minutes during a short drive, not more than a little less than an hour in a 10 hour driving day. And on a long driving day the gain can be lost in a few traffic tieups. The ratio of driving hazard is another story and more than justifies reasonable speed.

The tendency to equalize truck and passenger car speeds is sensible. It means much fewer jam ups and many fewer temptations to swing out in the wrong lane to pass the slower moving vehicles.

Nebraska should keep an eye on the Iowa resolve and may be able to save some lives. Iowa has generally favored high speed limits and certainly has done its patriotic share in sending motorists to the hereafter. The bill probably will become a law because the governor of Iowa who asked for it is standing at the output end of the legislature ready to sign it as soon as it comes through.

Russia Becoming More Capitalistic

WASHINGTON — Outside our Hotel Metropol in Moscow were two huge electric signs which flashed off and on during the night. This touch of Madison Avenue in the capital of communism indicates the most significant change in all the Soviet Union. For the Soviet has been drifting steadily toward capitalism. In the last year or so this drift has developed into a tide.

The development is all-important. For the time may come—if it hasn't already—when the United States may have to choose between an alignment with a Soviet Russia which is becoming capitalistic or an all-out showdown alone with rigidly communistic Red China which preaches the impossibility of coexistence.

Of the many remarks and wisecracks of Nikita Khrushchev, the one which most Americans will probably remember best is the threat: "We will bury you."

After making that remark he once explained to me: "I didn't mean war. I meant competition. You say your system is the best. We say our system is the best. Let's compete and see which is the best."

When I accused him of stealing certain capitalist ideas for his five-year plan, he replied: "Of course, we'll always steal the best things from capitalism. Capitalism is the father of communism."

In this competition between capitalism and communism for which Khrushchev set the stage, the most important capitalistic ingredient stolen by Moscow has been the profit motive. To the Chinese this is rank heresy and a complete betrayal of Marx and Lenin. And it is one of the bitter bones of contention between Moscow and Peking today.

Walking along the streets of Moscow, you can see the budding signs of capitalism. They are minor compared with the bustling sales drive of American businessmen, but revolutionary when you compare them with the old days in Moscow.

Said Adam Schaff, the communist Polish leader at the recent East-West meeting in New York: "The United States is becoming more social minded with its Social Security program, while the communist world is bringing more and more democracy and liberalization to its life.

"We are becoming closer despite all our difficulties and conflicts. We are closer now than we were ten years ago, and ten years from now, if there are no unhappy events from irrationality, we will be still closer."

My own observations confirm this. The Chinese don't like it. And they are delighted with our bombing of North Viet Nam which they regard as an act of irrationality playing into their hands. But if and when we can get over our Viet Nam problems, I am convinced the march toward better understanding will continue.

Peace Corps Proves Idealism Of Youth

WASHINGTON—For thousands of college seniors the end of the spring holiday romp—on the beaches and in the fields of countless playgrounds — means that the moment of solemn decision is close at hand. In the upsurge of affluence recruiting officers from every big corporation are bidding for engineers, scientists, top-ranking graduates in almost every department with starting salaries from $6,000 to $10,000 a year.

Recently they have had competition from a source hitherto undreamed of. The Peace Corps is setting up recruiting booths on many campuses to persuade young men and women to sign up for two years of service in the corps, starting—and finishing—salary: $75 a month, withheld while the volunteer is overseas.

No generation of youth has ever been so argued and fussed over as this one. These youngsters are pictured as adrift and alienated nihilists rejecting all the values of the past. Yet the wave of young volunteers out of the colleges who went to the South to work for civil rights put a new look on a generation that prophets of doom had written off as hopelessly lost.

The Peace Corps has been a conspicuous exhibit in the idealism department. Young people—nearly 10,000 now, including some oldsters — have gone out to 46 countries to show a lead in every kind of practical project from raising goats to teaching mathematics. They live at the same level, which is usually harsh and uncomfortable, as the local inhabitants.

A proof of the Corps' success is the demand for more and more volunteers. Congress has several times with virtually no dissent authorized sizable increases. Yet doubts have crept in and they were underscored by reports that came out of a recent conference of Peace Corps returnees.

A Peace Corps volunteer coming back from foreign parts where he has been a leader in an important community project finds it hard to fit into American life. That was the impression reported out of the gathering of returnees. Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps, told Congress the other day that isn't so. What they do find difficult, and this gets down to the quality of life in the affluent society, is to find jobs offering challenge, responsibility and a chance for creativity comparable to the work they did overseas.

Shriver gave a congressional committee a breakdown of the 689 volunteers who returned in 1963 after a two-year stint. Thirty-eight percent were taking more education, 47 percent were employed, eight percent were housewives or in military service and with seven percent failing to reply to a questionnaire only one percent were jobless. Although they can do so, only a negligible number re-enlist for a second two years.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

Guitar-Pacifier A Gold Mine

By MONA B. PARKER

The mayor's office at Red Cloud was the recipient of a somewhat indignant letter from a local flower-growing citizen . . .

Said citizen wants mayor and council to see to it, pronto, that a law is whipped up whereby a fine could be imposed on those people who let their chickens run loose and that the law be enforced "regardless who it may be."

With the offending chickens "ravenous," the letter writer elaborates on the urgency of action. "Now is the time the little perennials are coming thru and up out of the ground . . ."

Feed dealers in Lyons have developed a new disorder the last few weeks, according to Stan Samuelson, editor of the Mirror-Sun. It is known as "lane back." It comes, Mr. Samuelson says, from finding lanes impassable when delivering feed to some farms. And ranks in seriousness along with another current ailment rather prevalent among farming men. This one is "tired leg," and results from chasing animals around a feed lot—in mud.

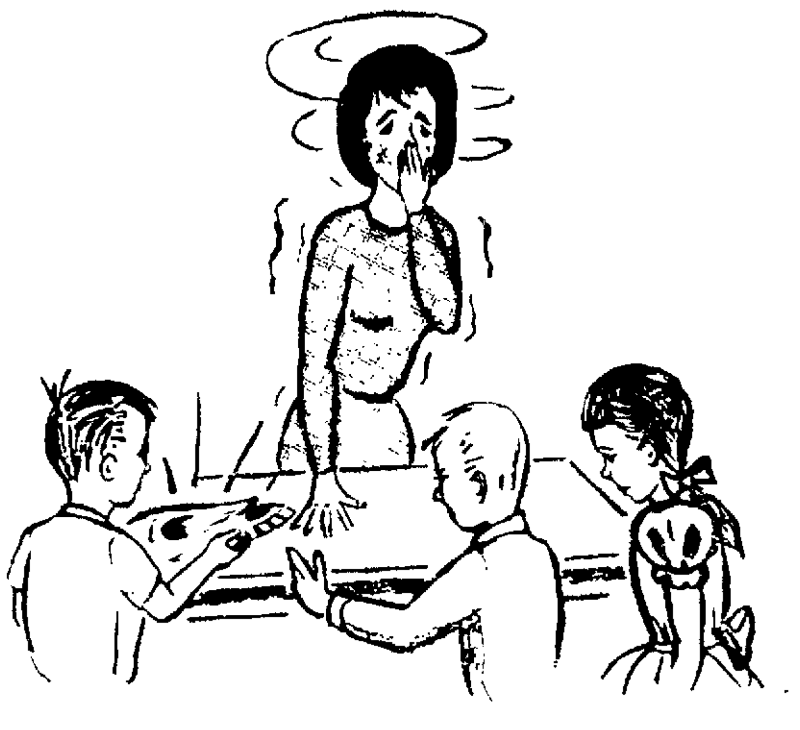
The particular lure of a seed catalogue may be ignored, Mrs. Lester Eastwood wrote in the Pawnee Republican, when the snow is flying and the ground is frozen solid as a pavement. But let the sun come out and the temperature start climbing and the breeze freshen with the feel of spring, and the home gardener succumbs.

A group discussion turned to odd and unusual plants, such as tree strawberries and peach plants, and someone who had ordered the latter told of waiting impatiently for weeks for the fruit to ripen. And then the garden peach turned out to be more closely related to the gourd than the peach and the fruit was completely inedible.



The Dick Howe family, for whom the Polk Progress provides a livelihood—and it is lively, at times—took a drive along the Platte one recent Sunday to enjoy the beauties of springtime. The lovelier aspects were a bit marred here and there by garbage and tin cans that had been dumped along the river. Disgusted but undaunted, the Howes ignored this and concentrated on birds and squirrels and bursting buds. Then, stopping, they made a really marvelous discovery. At least young Billy, did, his Dad explained. "It was a skull, apparently from a horse, frozen in the ice. We managed to get it free and no doubt the teachers are being thrilled this week during 'show and tell' time." Another similar choice treasure was left behind, and for good reason. "At the next stop, we found another batch of bones, but there still was some flesh attached. That one seemed to be the remains of a coyote."

G. E. R. Waechter of the Stanton Register remembers a dilly of a snowstorm once on April 23. However, inclined to be optimistic, she noted with satisfaction that "our yard is filled with youngsters playing ball, the little girls air their dollies outdoors after being cooped up all winter and the porch swing once again comes into its own."

Along the same line, the Cambridge Clarion reprints, for Beatle fans, what a British psychiatrist has to say: "The root of the long-hair craze is a desire by youths for over-identification with their mothers. There's a fortune for someone who can design a guitar with a pacifier so they can suck and pluck at the same time."

Harold Spence wonders, in the Holdrege Citizen, why the kids of today have a passion for sound and an apparent dread of silence. Radio and TV blast constantly in home and car, and in between "chances are they walk along with a transistor glued to their ear." Meanwhile, "many of us who are older look upon silence as a beautiful thing at times."

When Lucille Krueger, columnist for the Fairbury Journal, gets a mite weary, putting boots on and taking boots off her girls, she thinks of the poor teachers who have to help all the little ones with the same thing at school, and doesn't feel quite so sorry for herself.

Bright Future

Lincoln, Neb.

It irritates me when I hear people criticize and then not come up with something better, themselves. I am referring to a recent speech by Senator Curtis in which he said that Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman has failed the farmers, and criticized him for the low feed grain and wheat prices.

Now, some of the city folks may swallow this chaff but the truth is that Mr. Freeman has been doing his best to help the farmers but it takes the cooperation of congressmen in passing farm legislation.

Senator Curtis has voted against the administration's farm bills to raise the farmer's prices and has never come up with any program that is better. It is true that the farmer's prices are not up to parity and should be higher, but it is the best program we've had. The market price of our grains is low but with the certificate payments and acreage payments, it is good compared to the prices we would receive if Mr. Curtis and his presidential preference, Mr. Goldwater, had their way according to their voting records.

During Secretary Freeman's four-year term, wheat surpluses have dropped from 1.4 billion bushels to 900 million and feed grain has dropped from 85 million tons to 58 million tons. Net farm income rose from $11.7 billion in 1960 to $12.5 billion in 1964. If we had no price support and acreage diversion programs, the farmer's income would have dropped to $6 billion.

Now, how can anyone criticize Mr. Freeman on a record like this, in spite of the opposition he has to work against, including Nebraska congressmen and one farm organization?

With the help of the majority of farm organizations and our newly elected congressman, Clair Callan, and the many congressmen who have worked with Mr. Freeman, I feel that agriculture will have a bright future.

Authority

Lincoln, Neb.

Authority rightly used is a necessity and blessing, but wrongly used, it is the bane of those who use it and a calamity for those against whom it is used.

The creation of an urban renewal authority in any city regardless of size as a permanent bureaucracy is unconstitutional. It can and all too often disregards the restraint put on the use of authority by the Bill of Rights, thus destroying the basic philosophy and principles of our democratic processes.

Let us see to it that authority is kept in the hands of the people and their duly elected representatives and not delegate authority to an agency that is not accountable to the people.

Water Safety

Firth, Neb.

In reply to "No Dope About Safety." I question whether the writer is really qualified to write like that about safety. I do not want to minimize the importance of water safety rules, but by the same token we should not have much need for traffic policemen.

There are, of course, people who do not heed all the precautionary measures and safety rules of driving. And the same thing is true for the lakes. There is supposed to be no liquor in the swimming area, but I have seen liquor there. There is supposed to be no swimming outside the designated area, but I have seen that done. There are to be no dogs at the beach except on leashes, but I have seen people throwing sticks into the water and sending their dogs out after them. I have seen people foolishly rocking boats. And, last but not least, I have seen people in boats without life jackets. I have been told—and if I am wrong, I would be glad to be corrected—that the law requires that individuals over 14 years of age have a life jacket in the boat but need not be wearing it. Well, Bill Mulkey had a life jacket in the boat, too, but wasn't able to use it when he needed it.

After all the money that has been spent to make a recreation area at the lake, it ought to be properly patrolled, not alone for safety but also to keep the place nice. Littering and vandalism are bound to occur if nothing is done about them.

The Star on March 29 quoted the Game Commission as saying that they would not put a lifeguard there because they would only be baby-sitters for mothers who would leave their children there. Isn't that what city pool lifeguards might be, also?

They also say that the cost would be prohibitive. Suggestions have been made to raise money through boat registration fees, etc., which might be a good thing to do. The hours and seasons of the lifeguard might have to be limited but at least there would be more protection than we had last summer. If not a lifeguard, then why not some life-saving equipment to be kept at the beach, available only in case of emergency?

The Salt-Wahoo lakes are a big asset to the attractiveness of our state, but let us keep them safe as well as attractive.

Clearly called for now is a charter change that would permit revenue bond issues for off-street parking facilities. It may or may not fail at the ballot box but the effort needs to be made.

First Reappraisal Returns

An overall 58.89 percent increase in appraised value of Nance County real estate has put the spotlight on a big part of the state's tax problem. The figures are the product of Nance County compliance with a new state law requiring a reappraisal of all property in each county within a specific period of time.

This is the first such reappraisal completed under terms of the new law. By 1969, every county in the state will have had to at least entered into a contract for such a reappraisal.

The immediate problem is what to do about about such situations as Nance County, the first to come under the gun. If its reappraisal is left to stand, the citizens of that county will be paying an awesome penalty in state taxes in comparison with counties that take no such action until 1969.

Thus, Nance County citizens could be paying higher taxes than other citizens for up to five or six years. Other counties are not now likely to hurry in with a reappraisal just to make things even. They will generally delay the action for as long as the law will allow.

One alternative would be for the State Board of Equalization to reduce Nance County assessments but to do so would openly admit to the false valuations that exist throughout the state. Or, the state board could up all other counties. The trouble with that is that the board has hardly any factual basis on which to do this. It seems obvious that the Legislature needs to make a change in the law to provide for a uniform, statewide effective date for new assessments arrived at under terms of the 1963 reappraisal law.

Russia's Mysterious Beeps

The past several years Moscow has been singularly silent about announcing new inventions, like suspenders, bicycles and the American flag. For a while it looked as though the Russians had almost everything in the bag.

But Moscow got back in the hitting order last week, and we fear was a little overtrained. It asserted that it was picking up beeps which certainly were from outer space and probably meant that some living things out on the other side of the cosmos were trying to tell us something.

Later it faced an incredulous world with a more temperate statement. It said it had heard something.

Well so what? There are millions of non scientific wives who hear burglars downstairs every night. And there are millions of husbands who may not have much faith in such announcements but wouldn't think of going down to see.

Aside from matching our reports of flying saucers we lay no store whatever over Russia's sudden communication with individuals in outer space. It is an incredible assumption. No outer space creature with enough sense to hurl a message across any number of light years would be dull witted enough to want any part of this troubled planet. We can't hardly live in it ourselves, and we are not very bright. A well ordered universe would leave us strictly alone.

Our only reaction to such an astral message that might come our way would be a frantic armament effort and prompt declaration of war. And we wouldn't quit until we had knocked some innocent planet out of orbit.

We don't know what evidence Moscow has, but we have good evidence of our own. We have been reading Dick Tracy and Moon Maid, the only celestial figure we know of who got friendly enough to marry a junior detective. She is having a terrible time.

Iowa's New Speed Limit Bill

A committee of the lower house of the Iowa legislature has voted out a bill to reduce the speed limits on all highways except the Interstate.

The maximum on primary roads has been dropped from 70 to 65 miles per hour for daytime travel for passenger cars. But the daytime limit for trucks has been raised from 50 to 55. Night time limits have been dropped to 55 miles per hour to 50.

A maximum speed of 50 miles an hour day or night for trucks as well as passenger cars scheduled for secondary highways, barring a few exceptions where road conditions equal those of primary highways.

There are good points to such a bill. One answers the question of where does all that speed get you? There really isn't much difference driving 65 or 60 miles an hour, a matter of a very few minutes during a short drive, not more than a little less than an hour in a 10 hour driving day. And on a long driving day the gain can be lost in a few traffic tieups. The ratio of driving hazard is another story and more than justifies reasonable speed.

The tendency to equalize truck and passenger car speeds is sensible. It means much fewer jam ups and many fewer temptations to swing out in the wrong lane to pass the slower moving vehicles.

Nebraska should keep an eye on the Iowa resolve and may be able to save some lives. Iowa has generally favored high speed limits and certainly has done its patriotic share in sending motorists to the hereafter. The bill probably will become a law because the governor of Iowa who asked for it is standing at the output end of the legislature ready to sign it as soon as it comes through.

Russia Becoming More Capitalistic

WASHINGTON — Outside our Hotel Metropol in Moscow were two huge electric signs which flashed off and on during the night. This touch of Madison Avenue in the capital of communism indicates the most significant change in all the Soviet Union. For the Soviet has been drifting steadily toward capitalism. In the last year or so this drift has developed into a tide.

The development is all-important. For the time may come—if it hasn't already—when the United States may have to choose between an alignment with a Soviet Russia which is becoming capitalistic or an all-out showdown alone with rigidly communistic Red China which preaches the impossibility of coexistence.

Of the many remarks and wisecracks of Nikita Khrushchev, the one which most Americans will probably remember best is the threat: "We will bury you."

After making that remark he once explained to me: "I didn't mean war. I meant competition. You say your system is the best. We say our system is the best. Let's compete and see which is the best."

When I accused him of stealing certain capitalist ideas for his five-year plan, he replied: "Of course, we'll always steal the best things from capitalism. Capitalism is the father of communism."

In this competition between capitalism and communism for which Khrushchev set the stage, the most important capitalistic ingredient stolen by Moscow has been the profit motive. To the Chinese this is rank heresy and a complete betrayal of Marx and Lenin. And it is one of the bitter bones of contention between Moscow and Peking today.

Walking along the streets of Moscow, you can see the budding signs of capitalism. They are minor compared with the bustling sales drive of American businessmen, but revolutionary when you compare them with the old days in Moscow.

Said Adam Schaff, the communist Polish leader at the recent East-West meeting in New York: "The United States is becoming more social minded with its Social Security program, while the communist world is bringing more and more democracy and liberalization to its life.

"We are becoming closer despite all our difficulties and conflicts. We are closer now than we were ten years ago, and ten years from now, if there are no unhappy events from irrationality, we will be still closer."

My own observations confirm this. The Chinese don't like it. And they are delighted with our bombing of North Viet Nam which they regard as an act of irrationality playing into their hands. But if and when we can get over our Viet Nam problems, I am convinced the march toward better understanding will continue.

Peace Corps Proves Idealism Of Youth

WASHINGTON—For thousands of college seniors the end of the spring holiday romp—on the beaches and in the fields of countless playgrounds — means that the moment of solemn decision is close at hand. In the upsurge of affluence recruiting officers from every big corporation are bidding for engineers, scientists, top-ranking graduates in almost every department with starting salaries from $6,000 to $10,000 a year.

Recently they have had competition from a source hitherto undreamed of. The Peace Corps is setting up recruiting booths on many campuses to persuade young men and women to sign up for two years of service in the corps, starting—and finishing—salary: $75 a month, withheld while the volunteer is overseas.

No generation of youth has ever been so argued and fussed over as this one. These youngsters are pictured as adrift and alienated nihilists rejecting all the values of the past. Yet the wave of young volunteers out of the colleges who went to the South to work for civil rights put a new look on a generation that prophets of doom had written off as hopelessly lost.

The Peace Corps has been a conspicuous exhibit in the idealism department. Young people—nearly 10,000 now, including some oldsters — have gone out to 46 countries to show a lead in every kind of practical project from raising goats to teaching mathematics. They live at the same level, which is usually harsh and uncomfortable, as the local inhabitants.

A proof of the Corps' success is the demand for more and more volunteers. Congress has several times with virtually no dissent authorized sizable increases. Yet doubts have crept in and they were underscored by reports that came out of a recent conference of Peace Corps returnees.

A Peace Corps volunteer coming back from foreign parts where he has been a leader in an important community project finds it hard to fit into American life. That was the impression reported out of the gathering of returnees. Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps, told Congress the other day that isn't so. What they do find difficult, and this gets down to the quality of life in the affluent society, is to find jobs offering challenge, responsibility and a chance for creativity comparable to the work they did overseas.

Shriver gave a congressional committee a breakdown of the 689 volunteers who returned in 1963 after a two-year stint. Thirty-eight percent were taking more education, 47 percent were employed, eight percent were housewives or in military service and with seven percent failing to reply to a questionnaire only one percent were jobless. Although they can do so, only a negligible number re-enlist for a second two years.

Guitar-Pacifier A Gold Mine

By MONA B. PARKER

The mayor's office at Red Cloud was the recipient of a somewhat indignant letter from a local flower-growing citizen . . .

Said citizen wants mayor and council to see to it, pronto, that a law is whipped up whereby a fine could be imposed on those people who let their chickens run loose and that the law be enforced "regardless who it may be."

With the offending chickens "ravenous," the letter writer elaborates on the urgency of action. "Now is the time the little perennials are coming thru and up out of the ground . . ."

Feed dealers in Lyons have developed a new disorder the last few weeks, according to Stan Samuelson, editor of the Mirror-Sun. It is known as "lane back." It comes, Mr. Samuelson says, from finding lanes impassable when delivering feed to some farms. And ranks in seriousness along with another current ailment rather prevalent among farming men. This one is "tired leg," and results from chasing animals around a feed lot—in mud.

The particular lure of a seed catalogue may be ignored, Mrs. Lester Eastwood wrote in the Pawnee Republican, when the snow is flying and the ground is frozen solid as a pavement. But let the sun come out and the temperature start climbing and the breeze freshen with the feel of spring, and the home gardener succumbs.

A group discussion turned to odd and unusual plants, such as tree strawberries and peach plants, and someone who had ordered the latter told of waiting impatiently for weeks for the fruit to ripen. And then the garden peach turned out to be more closely related to the gourd than the peach and the fruit was completely inedible.

The Dick Howe family, for whom the Polk Progress provides a livelihood—and it is lively, at times—took a drive along the Platte one recent Sunday to enjoy the beauties of springtime. The lovelier aspects were a bit marred here and there by garbage and tin cans that had been dumped along the river. Disgusted but undaunted, the Howes ignored this and concentrated on birds and squirrels and bursting buds. Then, stopping, they made a really marvelous discovery. At least young Billy, did, his Dad explained. "It was a skull, apparently from a horse, frozen in the ice. We managed to get it free and no doubt the teachers are being thrilled this week during 'show and tell' time." Another similar choice treasure was left behind, and for good reason. "At the next stop, we found another batch of bones, but there still was some flesh attached. That one seemed to be the remains of a coyote."

G. E. R. Waechter of the Stanton Register remembers a dilly of a snowstorm once on April 23. However, inclined to be optimistic, she noted with satisfaction that "our yard is filled with youngsters playing ball, the little girls air their dollies outdoors after being cooped up all winter and the porch swing once again comes into its own."

Along the same line, the Cambridge Clarion reprints, for Beatle fans, what a British psychiatrist has to say: "The root of the long-hair craze is a desire by youths for over-identification with their mothers. There's a fortune for someone who can design a guitar with a pacifier so they can suck and pluck at the same time."

Harold Spence wonders, in the Holdrege Citizen, why the kids of today have a passion for sound and an apparent dread of silence. Radio and TV blast constantly in home and car, and in between "chances are they walk along with a transistor glued to their ear." Meanwhile, "many of us who are older look upon silence as a beautiful thing at times."

When Lucille Krueger, columnist for the Fairbury Journal, gets a mite weary, putting boots on and taking boots off her girls, she thinks of the poor teachers who have to help all the little ones with the same thing at school, and doesn't feel quite so sorry for herself.

Bright Future

Lincoln, Neb.

It irritates me when I hear people criticize and then not come up with something better, themselves. I am referring to a recent speech by Senator Curtis in which he said that Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman has failed the farmers, and criticized him for the low feed grain and wheat prices.

Now, some of the city folks may swallow this chaff but the truth is that Mr. Freeman has been doing his best to help the farmers but it takes the cooperation of congressmen in passing farm legislation.

Senator Curtis has voted against the administration's farm bills to raise the farmer's prices and has never come up with any program that is better. It is true that the farmer's prices are not up to parity and should be higher, but it is the best program we've had. The market price of our grains is low but with the certificate payments and acreage payments, it is good compared to the prices we would receive if Mr. Curtis and his presidential preference, Mr. Goldwater, had their way according to their voting records.

During Secretary Freeman's four-year term, wheat surpluses have dropped from 1.4 billion bushels to 900 million and feed grain has dropped from 85 million tons to 58 million tons. Net farm income rose from $11.7 billion in 1960 to $12.5 billion in 1964. If we had no price support and acreage diversion programs, the farmer's income would have dropped to $6 billion.

Now, how can anyone criticize Mr. Freeman on a record like this, in spite of the opposition he has to work against, including Nebraska congressmen and one farm organization?

With the help of the majority of farm organizations and our newly elected congressman, Clair Callan, and the many congressmen who have worked with Mr. Freeman, I feel that agriculture will have a bright future.

Authority

Lincoln, Neb.

Authority rightly used is a necessity and blessing, but wrongly used, it is the bane of those who use it and a calamity for those against whom it is used.

The creation of an urban renewal authority in any city regardless of size as a permanent bureaucracy is unconstitutional. It can and all too often disregards the restraint put on the use of authority by the Bill of Rights, thus destroying the basic philosophy and principles of our democratic processes.

Let us see to it that authority is kept in the hands of the people and their duly elected representatives and not delegate authority to an agency that is not accountable to the people.

Water Safety

Firth, Neb.

In reply to "No Dope About Safety," I question whether the writer is really qualified to write like that about safety. I do not want to minimize the importance of water safety rules, but by the same token we should not have much need for traffic policemen.

There are, of course, people who do not heed all the precautionary measures and safety rules of driving. And the same thing is true for the lakes. There is supposed to be no liquor in the swimming area, but I have seen liquor there. There is supposed to be no swimming outside the designated area, but I have seen that done. There are to be no dogs at the beach except on leashes, but I have seen people throwing sticks into the water and sending their dogs out after them. I have seen people foolishly rocking boats. And, last but not least, I have seen people in boats without life jackets. I have been told—and if I am wrong, I would be glad to be corrected—that the law requires that individuals over 14 years of age have a life jacket in the boat but need not be wearing it. Well, Bill Mulkey had a life jacket in the boat, too, but wasn't able to use it when he needed it.

After all the money that has been spent to make a recreation area at the lake, it ought to be properly patrolled, not alone for safety but also to keep the place nice. Littering and vandalism are bound to occur if nothing is done about them.

The Star on March 29 quoted the Game Commission as saying that they would not put a lifeguard there because they would only be baby-sitters for mothers who would leave their children there. Isn't that what city pool lifeguards might be, also?

They also say that the cost would be prohibitive. Suggestions have been made to raise money through boat registration fees, etc., which might be a good thing to do. The hours and seasons of the lifeguard might have to be limited but at least there would be more protection than we had last summer. If not a lifeguard, then why not some life-saving equipment to be kept at the beach, available only in case of emergency?

The Salt-Wahoo lakes are a big asset to the attractiveness of our state, but let us keep them safe as well as attractive.

A Complex World

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Sometimes the most simple things can become the most complex. A housewife can bake a cake and nine times out of ten, it will be routine business. But then one day the cake-making gets mixed in with telephone calls, visits by neighbors, a shortage of eggs, an empty powered sugar box, an oven on the blink or any number of other things. When the job is done, it is a great relief but the product is far off the usual standards.

Compounded Fracture

Changing the light bulb ought to be a pretty simple matter but it can get complicated, too. When the protective globe is removed it can be dropped and when that happens, you are in a fix. A quick visit to several stores will turn up literally hundreds of kinds of globes but none to fit the fixture you have. You can solve the problem, all right, by buying a new fixture but that is a great deal more than the bulb-changing plan you started out to execute. It is a mistake, too, to think that sticky situation can develop only around the home.

The same thing happens frequently in government. Take, for instance, the recent action of the Legislature in turning down a bill in committee that would have permitted Lincoln to issue revenue bonds to acquire and operate off-street parking facilities. The measure died on a 5-to-2 committee roll call.

The strange part of this is that parking is a major problem in the downtown area of Lincoln and is a problem the local government would like to do something about. Adding to the mixture is the fact that the voice of the Legislature is frequently heard in defense of local action as an answer to be preferred over higher levels of government.

Why the committee involved has seen fit to deny Lincoln a chance to meet one of its problems is something we don't understand. Perhaps the committee is so overwhelmed with the concept of free enterprise that it just cannot bear the thought of government in the parking business. But has it stopped to examine the effects to date of this kind of theory? There are many elements to the question but the net result is that private enterprise has not solved the problem and shows no inclination of doing so. Private enterprise is going to stick with the profit motive in parking, even if it kills it to do so, which it is likely to do as the years go by. Some might say that if private enterprise sees fit to injure itself, then that is the business of such enterprise and not the concern of government.

Of course, that idea is shot full of holes already in so many ways that it will hold no water, at all. Private enterprise cannot tear up the streets, it cannot operate in dangerous structures, it cannot work its employes indiscriminately, it cannot promote unhealthy conditions and it cannot do a great many other things. In short, elements of private enterprise operating individually cannot do things that are a detriment to such enterprise as a whole. Thus does the outline of a different kind of theory become visible—the theory of group action to achieve ends that are not attainable on an individual basis.

This is the theory the city seeks to invoke in attempting to get into the parking business. It is attempting to be the vehicle by which a problem in downtown Lincoln can be solved when that problem has not been solved for years in any other way. It is attempting to protect the tax base on which the city rests and to maintain the economic strength and stability of a major part of the city.

At the same time, it is attempting to solve a downtown traffic problem for which it is solely responsible by directing traffic to the fringes rather than the center of the commercial hub or core of the city. It would like to dump this traffic into selected places around the edges of this hub rather than piling it up in the middle.

Matter Not Finished

This makes a lot of sense, too, and hasn't anything to do with private enterprise in the primary sense, but it obviously hasn't gotten through to the Legislature. It is precisely because of this kind of failure at local and state levels of government that the federal government is in the many local affairs it is. For Lincoln, it should consider now that the Legislature has only heaped additional responsibility upon it, not absolved it of anything. The Legislature has not concluded the matter for the city.

The city is currently engaged, through the work of a citizens committee, in a revision of its home rule charter. Clearly called for now is a charter change that would permit revenue bond issues for off-street parking facilities. It may or may not fail at the ballot box but the effort needs to be made.

Russia Becoming More Capitalistic

WASHINGTON — Outside our Hotel Metropol in Moscow were two huge electric signs which flashed off and on during the night. This touch of Madison Avenue in the capital of communism indicates the most significant change in all the Soviet Union. For the Soviet has been drifting steadily toward capitalism. In the last year or so this drift has developed into a tide.

The development is all-important. For the time may come—if it hasn't already—when the United States may have to choose between an alignment with a Soviet Russia which is becoming capitalistic or an all-out showdown alone with rigidly communistic Red China which preaches the impossibility of coexistence.

Of the many remarks and wisecracks of Nikita Khrushchev, the one which most Americans will probably remember best is the threat: "We will bury you."

After making that remark he once explained to me: "I didn't mean war. I meant competition. You say your system is the best. We say our system is the best. Let's compete and see which is the best."

When I accused him of stealing certain capitalist ideas for his five-year plan, he replied: "Of course, we'll always steal the best things from capitalism. Capitalism is the father of communism."

In this competition between capitalism and communism for which Khrushchev set the stage, the most important capitalistic ingredient stolen by Moscow has been the profit motive. To the Chinese this is rank heresy and a complete betrayal of Marx and Lenin. And it is one of the bitter bones of contention between Moscow and Peking today.

Walking along the streets of Moscow, you can see the budding signs of capitalism. They are minor compared with the bustling sales drive of American businessmen, but revolutionary when you compare them with the old days in Moscow.

Said Adam Schaff, the communist Polish leader at the recent East-West meeting in New York: "The United States is becoming more social minded with its Social Security program, while the communist world is bringing more and more democracy and liberalization to its life.

"We are becoming closer despite all our difficulties and conflicts. We are closer now than we were ten years ago, and ten years from now, if there are no unhappy events from irrationality, we will be still closer."

My own observations confirm this. The Chinese don't like it. And they are delighted with our bombing of North Viet Nam which they regard as an act of irrationality playing into their hands. But if and when we can get over our Viet Nam problems, I am convinced the march toward better understanding will continue.

Peace Corps Proves Idealism Of Youth

WASHINGTON—For thousands of college seniors the end of the spring holiday romp—on the beaches and in the fields of countless playgrounds — means that the moment of solemn decision is close at hand. In the upsurge of affluence recruiting officers from every big corporation are bidding for engineers, scientists, top-ranking graduates in almost every department with starting salaries from $6,000 to $10,000 a year.

Recently they have had competition from a source hitherto undreamed of. The Peace Corps is setting up recruiting booths on many campuses to persuade young men and women to sign up for two years of service in the corps, starting—and finishing—salary: $75 a month, withheld while the volunteer is overseas.

No generation of youth has ever been so argued and fussed over as this one. These youngsters are pictured as adrift and alienated nihilists rejecting all the values of the past. Yet the wave of young volunteers out of the colleges who went to the South to work for civil rights put a new look on a generation that prophets of doom had written off as hopelessly lost.

The Peace Corps has been a conspicuous exhibit in the idealism department. Young people—nearly 10,000 now, including some oldsters — have gone out to 46 countries to show a lead in every kind of practical project from raising goats to teaching mathematics. They live at the same level, which is usually harsh and uncomfortable, as the local inhabitants.

A proof of the Corps' success is the demand for more and more volunteers. Congress has several times with virtually no dissent authorized sizable increases. Yet doubts have crept in and they were underscored by reports that came out of a recent conference of Peace Corps returnees.

A Peace Corps volunteer coming back from foreign parts where he has been a leader in an important community project finds it hard to fit into American life. That was the impression reported out of the gathering of returnees. Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps, told Congress the other day that isn't so. What they do find difficult, and this gets down to the quality of life in the affluent society, is to find jobs offering challenge, responsibility and a chance for creativity comparable to the work they did overseas.

Shriver gave a congressional committee a breakdown of the 689 volunteers who returned in 1963 after a two-year stint. Thirty-eight percent were taking more education, 47 percent were employed, eight percent were housewives or in military service and with seven percent failing to reply to a questionnaire only one percent were jobless. Although they can do so, only a negligible number re-enlist for a second two years.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

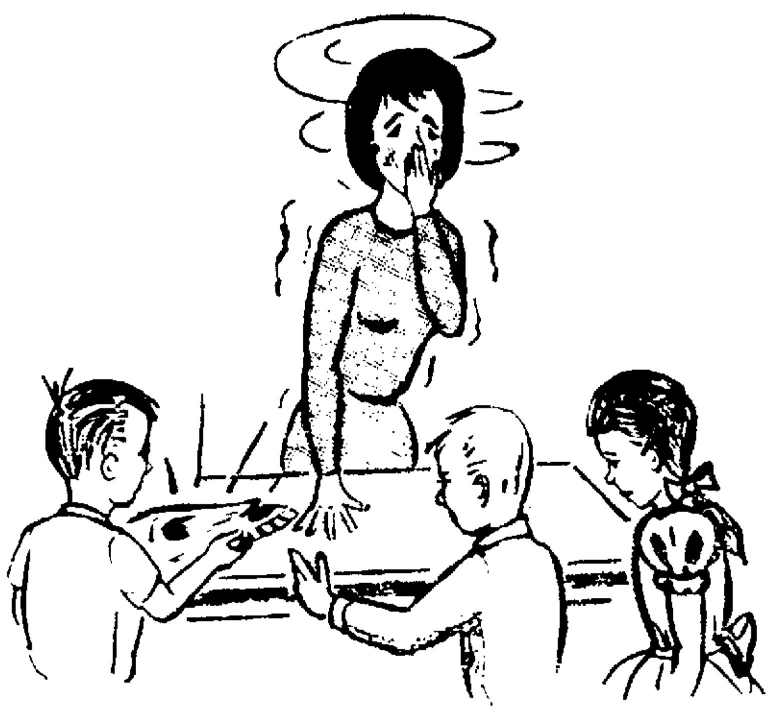
By MONA B. PARKER



The mayor's office at Red Cloud was the recipient of a somewhat indignant letter from a local flower-growing citizen . . .

Said citizen wants mayor and council to see to it, pronto, that a law is whipped up whereby a fine could be imposed on those people who let their chickens run loose and that the law be enforced "regardless who it may be."

With the offending chickens "ravenous," the letter writer elaborates on the urgency of action. "Now is the time the little perennials are coming thru and up out of the ground . . ."

Feed dealers in Lyons have developed a new disorder the last few weeks, according to Stan Samuelson, editor of the Mirror-Sun. It is known as "lane back." It comes, Mr. Samuelson says, from finding lanes impassable when delivering feed to some farms. And ranks in seriousness along with another current ailment rather prevalent among farming men. This one is "tired leg," and results from chasing animals around a feed lot—in mud.

The particular lure of a seed catalogue may be ignored, Mrs. Lester Eastwood wrote in the Pawnee Republican, when the snow is flying and the ground is frozen solid as a pavement. But let the sun come out and the temperature start climbing and the breeze freshen with the feel of spring, and the home gardener succumbs.

A group discussion turned to odd and unusual plants, such as tree strawberries and peach plants, and someone who had ordered the latter told of waiting impatiently for weeks for the fruit to ripen. And then the garden peach turned out to be more closely related to the gourd than the peach and the fruit was completely inedible.

The Dick Howe family, for whom the Polk Progress provides a livelihood—and it is lively, at times—took a drive along the Platte one recent Sunday to enjoy the beauties of springtime. The lovelier aspects were a bit marred here and there by garbage and tin cans that had been dumped along the river. Disgusted but undaunted, the Howes ignored this and concentrated on birds and squirrels and bursting buds. Then, stopping, they made a really marvelous discovery. At least young Billy, did, his Dad explained. "It was a skull, apparently from a horse, frozen in the ice. We managed to get it free and no doubt the teachers are being thrilled this week during 'show and tell' time." Another similar choice treasure was left behind, and for good reason. "At the next stop, we found another batch of bones, but there still was some flesh attached. That one seemed to be the remains of a coyote."

G. E. R. Waechter of the Stanton Register remembers a dilly of a snowstorm once on April 23. However, inclined to be optimistic, she noted with satisfaction that "our yard is filled with youngsters playing ball, the little girls air their dollies outdoors after being cooped up all winter and the porch swing once again comes into its own."

Along the same line, the Cambridge Clarion reprints, for Beatle fans, what a British psychiatrist has to say: "The root of the long-hair craze is a desire by youths for over-identification with their mothers. There's a fortune for someone who can design a guitar with a pacifier so they can suck and pluck at the same time."

Harold Spence wonders, in the Holdrege Citizen, why the kids of today have a passion for sound and an apparent dread of silence. Radio and TV blast constantly in home and car, and in between "chances are they walk along with a transistor glued to their ear." Meanwhile, "many of us who are older look upon silence as a beautiful thing at times."

When Lucille Krueger, columnist for the Fairbury Journal, gets a mite weary, putting boots on and taking boots off her girls, she thinks of the poor teachers who have to help all the little ones with the same thing at school, and doesn't feel quite so sorry for herself.

Bright Future

Lincoln, Neb.

It irritates me when I hear people criticize and then not come up with something better, themselves. I am referring to a recent speech by Senator Curtis in which he said that Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman has failed the farmers, and criticized him for the low feed grain and wheat prices.

Now, some of the city folks may swallow this chaff but the truth is that Mr. Freeman has been doing his best to help the farmers but it takes the cooperation of congressmen in passing farm legislation.

Senator Curtis has voted against the administration's farm bills to raise the farmer's prices and has never come up with any program that is better. It is true that the farmer's prices are not up to parity and should be higher, but it is the best program we've had. The market price of our grains is low but with the certificate payments and acreage payments, it is good compared to the prices we would receive if Mr. Curtis and his presidential preference, Mr. Goldwater, had their way according to their voting records.

During Secretary Freeman's four-year term, wheat surpluses have dropped from 1.4 billion bushels to 900 million and feed grain has dropped from 85 million tons to 58 million tons. Net farm income rose from $11.7 billion in 1960 to $12.5 billion in 1964. If we had no price support and acreage diversion programs, the farmer's income would have dropped to $6 billion.

Now, how can anyone criticize Mr. Freeman on a record like this, in spite of the opposition he has to work against, including Nebraska congressmen and one farm organization?

With the help of the majority of farm organizations and our newly elected congressman, Clair Callan, and the many congressmen who have worked with Mr. Freeman, I feel that agriculture will have a bright future.

Authority

Lincoln, Neb.

Authority rightly used is a necessity and blessing, but wrongly used, it is the bane of those who use it and a calamity for those against whom it is used.

The creation of an urban renewal authority in any city regardless of size as a permanent bureaucracy is unconstitutional. It can and all too often disregards the restraint put on the use of authority by the Bill of Rights, thus destroying the basic philosophy and principles of our democratic processes.

Let us see to it that authority is kept in the hands of the people and their duly elected representatives and not delegate authority to an agency that is not accountable to the people.

REV. W. L. HADSELL

Firth, Neb.

In reply to "No Dope About Safety," I question whether the writer is really qualified to write like that about safety. I do not want to minimize the importance of water safety rules, but by the same token we should not have much need for traffic policemen.

There are, of course, people who do not heed all the precautionary measures and safety rules of driving. And the same thing is true for the lakes. There is supposed to be no liquor in the swimming area, but I have seen liquor there. There is supposed to be no swimming outside the designated area, but I have seen that done. There are to be no dogs at the beach except on leashes, but I have seen people throwing sticks into the water and sending their dogs out after them. I have seen people foolishly rocking boats. And, last but not least, I have seen people in boats without life jackets. I have been told—and if I am wrong, I would be glad to be corrected—that the law requires that individuals over 14 years of age have a life jacket in the boat but need not be wearing it. Well, Bill Mulkey had a life jacket in the boat, too, but wasn't able to use it when he needed it.

After all the money that has been spent to make a recreation area at the lake, it ought to be properly patrolled, not alone for safety but also to keep the place nice. Littering and vandalism are bound to occur if nothing is done about them.

The Star on March 29 quoted the Game Commission as saying that they would not put a lifeguard there because they would only be baby-sitters for mothers who would leave their children there. Isn't that what city pool lifeguards might be, also?

They also say that the cost would be prohibitive. Suggestions have been made to raise money through boat registration fees, etc., which might be a good thing to do. The hours and seasons of the lifeguard might have to be limited but at least there would be more protection than we had last summer. If not a lifeguard, then why not some life-saving equipment to be kept at the beach, available only in case of emergency?

The Salt-Wahoo lakes are a big asset to the attractiveness of our state, but let us keep them safe as well as attractive.

Industrial Output Up For Fifth Month

Washington (AP)—The nation's industrial production increased in March for the fifth straight month and was 8.5% above the level of 12 months ago, the Federal Reserve Board said Thursday.

Gains in the manufacturing industries, particularly the automobile segment, played a large part in the monthly increase.

The index of industrial production was 140.1, compared to 138.9 in February. This means that the output of the nation's factories, mines and utilities was 40% higher than the 1957-59 level.

The board said the March advance reflected, in part, inventory accumulations for automobiles, steel, and some other products.

There was a considerable gain in production of television sets, although output of furniture and appliances showed little change.

The Federal Reserve said, "Total output of home goods was about a tenth higher than last summer."

None Of Five Approved Birth Pills Taken Off Market

Washington (UPI)—The use of birth control pills by American women has been so successful that it has been unnecessary to take any of the five approved types off the market, the Food and Drug Administration reported to Congress Thursday.

Dr. Joseph F. Saduck, chief of the FDA's Bureau of Medicine, reported to a House appropriations subcommittee that one of his department's largest programs has been to monitor the effectiveness of the pills.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Just about when April had mellowed our hillside, she turned traitor. A whacking big rainstorm came down from the Aleutians. (That was the night I left the car on the street with the windows open.)

So, up and yawning in the gray morning. ("Six hours sleep is enough,' reported the Regimen Salernitanum, year 1275).

I get up not out of wakefulness nor ambition. I get up out of nagging conscience implanted in my sleepy youth.

Late sleeping and lying slugabed was not approved in our household. We were up at six o'clock. My grandfather rose with gusto and sang loud and joyous hymns during his bath.

He felt like a million dollars, he said. And he figured everybody else should feel the same way if they just poped out of bed.

"Love not sleep lest thou come to poverty," he said. "Proverbs XX, 13," he said. To show he knew his source material.

Is it better to be poor and rested? Or rich and sleepy?

"Up sluggard, and waste not life; in the grave will be sleeping enough."

That was said by Benjamin Franklin. Benjamin was a great hand with the ladies while visiting Paris. And how he got enough sleep is beyond me.

In farm and oil rich Kern County, California the other day: A maid rapped on the door of a trailer belonging to Baxter Lightfoot, to get his laundry.

The trailer blew up under her knuckles. Giving her a surprise that should last the rest of her life. Lightfoot hurtled out of the mushroom cloud. Landed at her feet.

He told firemen later that he had wakened and noticed that his gas stove had gone out.

The reclining chair people hope everybody will buy one—or two. Stop coffee-breaking. Take catnaps.

They point out that the Duke of Wellington slept on horseback.

The main thing I recall about the Iron Duke was his famous statement in the House of Lords. An opponent chided him for being born in Ireland.

"Being born in a stable," said the Duke, "does not make one a horse."

You don't get off that kind of remark if you haven't had enough sleep.

I could never get with the catnap—no matter how reclining the chair. Once up, I am off and away. But—oh, how I hate to get up in the morning.

My grandfather got up and splashed and snorted and shaved himself.

He opened windows and let the cold, cold wind come blowing in.

He sang, "Nearer My God to Three." And "While the Lamp Holds Out to Burn, the Vilest Sinner May Return.'

He called heartily down the hall that he was hungry as a bear.

He asked if everybody was up, hey?

Under that kind of pressure, I came out from under the covers. It was murder.

This, I find, has lasted the rest of my life. I can lie warm and snug. But conscience prods me with a sharp bayonet. I don't sleep.

And so I rise. yawning.

For somewhere, I have an uneasy feeling that grandpa might be watching disapprovingly. Roaring for his bacon and eggs and all hands up and moving.

Industrial Output Up For Fifth Month

Washington (AP)—The nation's industrial production increased in March for the fifth straight month and was 8.5% above the level of 12 months ago, the Federal Reserve Board said Thursday.

Gains in the manufacturing industries, particularly the automobile segment, played a large part in the monthly increase.

The index of industrial production was 140.1, compared to 138.9 in February. This means that the output of the nation's factories, mines and utilities was 40% higher than the 1957-59 level.

The board said the March advance reflected, in part, inventory accumulations for automobiles, steel, and some other products.

There was a considerable gain in production of television sets, although output of furniture and appliances showed little change.

The Federal Reserve said, "Total output of home goods was about a tenth higher than last summer."

None Of Five Approved Birth Pills Taken Off Market

Washington (UPI)—The use of birth control pills by American women has been so successful that it has been unnecessary to take any of the five approved types off the market, the Food and Drug Administration reported to Congress Thursday.

Dr. Joseph F. Saduck, chief of the FDA's Bureau of Medicine, reported to a House appropriations subcommittee that one of his department's largest programs has been to monitor the effectiveness of the pills.

Power Board Told To Judge Case From Own Experience

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska Power Review Board members were told Thursday to judge from their own experience whether the benefits of the new 230-kilovolt electric transmission line in western Nebraska would "flow on to all customers" if it were constructed by the Nebraska Public Power System.

Consumers Public Power District attorney Richard Wilson of Lincoln noted that the State Supreme Court, in its tax equalization ruling this week, stated that members of the State Board of Equalization and Assessment may draw on their own experience in reaching decisions.

At issue were oral arguments on motions for rehearing in the board's 3-2 ruling that Consumers shall construct the new high-voltage line from Sidney to North Platte.

NPPS co-partners Loup River Public Power District and Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District filed motions for rehearing. Loup had also applied for authority to construct the facility.

Wilson noted that Consumers has already "gone ahead to take bids" on the construction because of the "pressing necessity" to have the line in operation by the summer of 1966.

Leininger of Columbus said the central point in the motions for rehearing is a contention that the board erred in its finding that CPPD would use half of the output of the new line in its eastern system.

While Consumers does presently use 50% of the capacity of the NPPS transmission grid system, it is not purchasing load growth from NPPS, Leininger said. Instead, Consumers is constructing its own internal generation for load growth, he noted.

Load Growth

But, Wilson countered, there is evidence in the record that CPPD intends to use the line for load growth in its eastern system.

Among other arguments, Leininger noted that the board made no finding on the probable cost of financing the line despite the fact that it was a contested issue. This, he said, could provide clear basis for appeal.

Wilson said the issue of financing costs was covered broadly by the board in its finding that Consumers could most economically construct the facility.

Under the Supreme Court's tax equalization ruling, Wilson suggested, the board is free to consider from its own experience whether the benefits of the NPPS transmission system are distributed to customers through wheeling privileges or through allocation of surplus funds raised by NPPS rates.

Plan To Aid Army Rejects Is Submitted

A contract under which Nebraska would begin a program to aid youths rejected by the armed forces has been submitted to the federal government, it was reported Thursday.

Dr. E. A. Rogers, state director of health, said the program could begin by July 1 "if all goes according to routine.'

Rogers also noted that the department has begun recruiting for staff members for the new project.

The agreement submitted to the federal government, he said, calls for a $35,000 appropriation for Nebraska's role in the program during the next fiscal year.

The object of the project, Dr. Rogers said, is to tell draftees with emotional or physical problems where they can turn for assistance.

"Often men don't know why they have been rejected," he said. "They don't understand the seriousness of the problem, if it can be corrected, or where to go for help."

He said a staff member will be stationed at the armed services examining station at Omaha so that men who are rejected can be counselled immediately.

POSTCARD — by Stan Delaplane

Just about when April had mellowed our hillside, she turned traitor. A whacking big rainstorm came down from the Aleutians. (That was the night I left the car on the street with the winows open.)

So, up and yawning in the gray morning. ("Six hours sleep is enough,' reported the Regimen Salernitanum, year 1275).

I get up not out of wakefulness nor ambition. I get up out of nagging conscience implanted in my sleepy youth.

Late sleeping and lying slugabed was not approved in our household. We were up at six o'clock. My grandfather rose with gusto and sang loud and joyous hymns during his bath.

He felt like a million dollars, he said. And he figured everybody else should feel the same way if they just poped out of bed.

"Love not sleep lest thou come to poverty," he said. "Proverbs XX, 13," he said. To show he knew his source material.

Is it better to be poor and rested? Or rich and sleepy?

"Up sluggard, and waste not life; in the grave will be sleeping enough."

That was said by Benjamin Franklin. Benjamin was a great hand with the ladies while visiting Paris. And how he got enough sleep is beyond me.

In farm and oil rich Kern County, California the other day: A maid rapped on the door of a trailer belonging to Baxter Lightfoot, to get his laundry.

The trailer blew up under her knuckles. Giving her a surprise that should last the rest of her life. Lightfoot hurtled out of the mushroom cloud. Landed at her feet.

He told firemen later that he had wakened and noticed that his gas stove had gone out

The reclining chair people hope everybody will buy one—or two. Stop coffee-breaking. Take catnaps.

They point out that the Duke of Wellington slept on horseback.

The main thing I recall about the Iron Duke was his famous statement in the House of Lords. An opponent chided him for being born in Ireland.

"Being born in a stable," said the Duke, "does not make one a horse."

You don't get off that kind of remark if you haven't had enough sleep.

I could never get with the catnap—no matter how reclining the chair. Once up, I am off and away. But—oh, how I hate to get up in the morning.

My grandfather got up and splashed and snorted and shaved himself.

He opened windows and let the cold, cold wind come blowing in

He sang, "Nearer My God to Three." And "While the Lamp Holds Out to Burn, the Vilest Sinner May Return.'

He called heartily down the hall that he was hungry as a bear.

He asked if everybody was up, hey?

Under that kind of pressure, I came out from under the covers. It was murder.

This, I find, has lasted the rest of my life. I can lie warm and snug. But conscience prods me with a sharp bayonet. I don't sleep.

And so I rise. yawning.

For somewhere, I have an uneasy feeling that grandpa might be watching disapprovingly. Roaring for his bacon and eggs and all hands up and moving

Judge Sets Hearing On Bill

. . . REGARDING HABEAS CORPUS PETITIONS

U.S. District Judge Robert Van Pelt Thursday issued an order setting a hearing to determine what impact a recently passed Unicameral bill will have on habeas corpus cases now pending in federal court.

The court order follows the filing by the State Attorney General's office of motions to dismiss 13 habeas corpus petitions filed by inmates of the Nebraska Penitentiary on grounds that post-conviction relief has been made available at the state level.

The Legislature passed the measure, LB836, last Friday and with an emergency clause it went into effect with Governor Morrison's signature Monday.

LB836 provides a post-conviction relief procedure in state cases, whereby a person who feels his civil rights were violated can seek a hearing in the state district court where he was convicted.

The law was designed to relieve the state attorney general's office the burden of having to represent the state in all the habeas corpus cases in federal court.

It also relieves the federal court of the load of habeas corpus cases resulting from recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions and provides a state remedy similar to the one offered under federal law.

Judge Van Pelt ordered that the state motions in the 13 cases along with all pending cases be set for hearing Friday, May 14.

At the hearing, Judge Van Pelt said he will hear all motions and consider the impact of LB836 on all pending state habeas corpus cases and determine the content of the order to be issued, if one is to be issued.

In his order, the Judge said, "The court upon its own motion must consider the impact of this enactment upon all habeas corpus cases pending in this court involving state prisoners."

King Tries Habeas Corpus; Gets 4 More Years Instead

Omaha (UPI)—David King went back to state prison for four more years Thursday, the price he will have to pay for trying to win a legal bid for freedom.

The 33-year-old King had been sentenced in 1959 to serve eight years in the state penitentiary at Lincoln for robbing the Friendly Liquor Store here. With time off, he would have been free April 26.

Instead, he applied for a writ of habeas corpus and retracted his guilty plea. He had been struck and handcuffed to a chair during police questioning, he said.

But in a hearing, Douglas County Dist. Judge John Murphy denied King's motion for freedom and sentenced him to serve four more years for the crime.

"I got the chance," King told the court. "But I was unable to prove that I did not commit this crime, so I imagine I must take the consequences.

"If the court had treated me as fairly six years ago as it did this time, I would not be here now."

Judge Murphy noted in his decision the newly won legal recourse to habeas corpus writs could often hurt prisoner as much as help them. It could be, he said, an illusory vision of freedom that does not exist.

Professor Discusses 'So-Called Open Society'

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

With repeated jabs at Barry Goldwater and Republicans, Indiana University professor Dr. Herbert J. Muller told a small University of Nebraska audience Thursday his idea about the "prospects of a so-called open society."

However, the English and government instructor recounted recent revolutionary events and declared that they totaled reasons why "you should not expect a confident diagnosis from me."

Muller explained that the open society was "more open to change and more free because it has to make room for creative, independent people thinking on their own." But he reminded those who prefer an open society that they "must face the record that it is not the most natural kind."

Author of "The Uses of the Past" and six other books, Muller is also scheduled to speak at the Unitarian Church of Lincoln on "Freedom in the Modern World" Friday at 8 p.m.

Speaking about the threats to an open society, "which cannot be minimized because some people are never familiar enough with them," Muller discussed the growing and increasingly uncontrolable bureaucracy and the authoritarian personality.

"In spite of the growth of bureaucracy, the democratic process has been maintained," Professor Muller told his audience.

"Ultimately the people do have some control for they have preserved the essential conditions" of elections, discussion and criticism, a climate of respect for the right of private associations to represent the people, a sufficiently responsible government, and a sufficiently responsible opposition.

It is "impossible to predict the prospects of an open society," Muller has concluded, "but the basis reasons for uncertainty involve the reasons for hope."

Mortician-Turned-Politician Subject Of Stromer Thesis

A Nebraska legislator's doctoral dissertation may blossom into the first major published biography of one of the state's most colorful political figures, the late U.S. Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry.

Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln, who is spending the Unicameral's Easter recess "methodically and painfully" digesting the papers of Wherry and his U.S. senatorial colleague, Hugh Butler, said Thursday he plans after the summer to expand the doctoral dissertation into a full political biography.

Wherry was a Pawnee City lawyer - merchant-mortician who rocked the political world by ousting Nebraska's famed fighting liberal, George W. Norris, from the United States Senate in 1942. What makes Wherry's political life even more notable and worthy of biographical autopsy, Stromer said, was the speed with which he, although a freshman, moved up to become Republican whip and floor leader.

Sen. Stromer, as a student of political science, has completed all course requirements for his doctor's degree and is concentrating currently on completing his doctoral thesis on "The Making of a Political Leader: Kenneth S. Wherry and the U.S. Senate."

The lawmaker and part-time professor said he plans a trip to Washington and other eastern points in late April and early May for face-to-face interviews with erstwhile associates of Wherry, in quest of information to go into the biography.

The interviewed personages will include former Vice President Richard Nixon; former National GOP Chairman Herb Brownell; former Republican presidential candidate Tom Dewey; former vice presidential candidate John Bricker of Columbus, Ohio; Scott Lucas, Leverett Saltonstall, Bourke Hickenlooper, Everett Dirksen, Author William S. White and others.

Sen. Stromer said he has received two "nibbles" from prospective publishers of the projected book—the University of Nebraska Press and a subsidiary of Random House.

Final Plans For Paunch Removal Plant Received

State Sanitation Engineer T. A. Filipi received final plans and specifications for Omaha's $2 million paunch removal and incineration plant Thursday.

They arrived on the target date set in February by the federal government and health officials of Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska.

Filipi said there now is no reason why a contract for the plant cannot be awarded by July 1 and the plant be put into operation by December of 1966, the other deadlines set by the health officials.

The timetable was set by the conferees from the U.S. Welfare Department and the four states who insisted that Omaha provide as soon as possible waste treatment facilities to abate pollution of the Missouri River.

The proposed plant, which will be constructed in the Mandan Park area on the river south of Omaha, will cost $2,139,000 and will be the largest plant of its kind in the world. It will remove paunch manure from the wastes being dumped into the river by Omaha's packing plants.

Paunch manure is taken from the second stomach of slaughtered cows. The material is not usable as fertilizer or for any other purpose.

Power Board Told To Judge Case From Own Experience

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska Power Review Board members were told Thursday to judge from their own experience whether the benefits of the new 230-kilovolt electric transmission line in western Nebraska would "flow on to all customers" if it were constructed by the Nebraska Public Power System.

Consumers Public Power District attorney Richard Wilson of Lincoln noted that the State Supreme Court, in its tax equalization ruling this week stated that members of the State Board of Equalization and Assessment may draw on their own experience in reaching decisions.

At issue were oral arguments on motions for rehearing in the board's 3-2 ruling that Consumers shall construct the new high-voltage line from Sidney to North Platte.

NPPS co-partners Loup River Public Power District and Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District filed motions for rehearing. Loup had also applied for authority to construct the facility.

Wilson noted that Consumers has already "gone ahead to take bids" on the construction because of the "pressing necessity" to have the line in operation by the summer of 1966.

Leininger of Columbus said the central point in the motions for rehearing is a contention that the board erred in its finding that CPPD would use half of the output of the new line in its eastern system.

While Consumers does presently use 50% of the capacity of the NPPS transmission grid system, it is not purchasing load growth from NPPS, Leininger said. Instead, Consumers is constructing its own internal generation for load growth, he noted.

Load Growth

But, Wilson countered, there is evidence in the record that CPPD intends to use the line for load growth in its eastern system.

Among other arguments, Leininger noted that the board made no finding on the probable cost of financing the line despite the fact that it was a contested issue. This, he said, could provide clear basis for appeal.

Wilson said the issue of financing costs was covered broadly by the board in its finding that Consumers could most economically construct the facility.

Under the Supreme Court's tax equalization ruling, Wilson suggested, the board is free to consider from its own experience whether the benefits of the NPPS transmission system are distributed to customers through wheeling privileges or through allocation of surplus funds raised by NPPS rates

Plan To Aid Army Rejects Is Submitted

A contract under which Nebraska would begin a program to aid youths rejected by the armed forces has been submitted to the federal government, it was reported Thursday.

Dr. E. A. Rogers, state director of health, said the program could begin by July 1 "if all goes according to routine.'

Rogers also noted that the department has begun recruiting for staff members for the new project.

The agreement submitted to the federal government, he said, calls for a $35,000 appropriation for Nebraska's role in the program during the next fiscal year.

The object of the project, Dr. Rogers said, is to tell draftees with emotional or physical problems where they can turn for assistance.

"Often men don't know why they have been rejected," he said "They don't understand the seriousness of the problem, if it can be corrected, or where to go for help"

He said a staff member will be stationed at the armed services examining station at Omaha so that men who are rejected can be counselled immediately.

Chapel Services

Miss Marcia Jean Tunnicliff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Tunnicliff of Clarinda, Iowa, became the bride of Benjamin Allan Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan F. Black of Broken Bow, at a candlelight ceremony, Saturday evening, April 3, at Clarinda. The lines of the service were read by the Rev. D. C. Davis.

Shealth frocks in petal pink were worn by the maid of honor, Miss Donna Marie Black of Broken Bow, sister of the bridegroom; and the bridesmaids, Miss Merrily Newton, Ponca; Miss Diane Rearwin, Santa Barbara, Calif.; and Miss Lyndelle Jones, Broken Arrow, Okla.

Kent McCloughan of Broken Bow, served his cousin as best man, and seating the guests were Joseph Robert Tunnicliff, Clarinda, brother of the bride; Donald Skeen, Lincoln; Michael Fariss and Irvan Clark, Broken Bow.

The bride chose white silk organza over taffeta for her wedding gown. Alencon lace applique patterned the snug bodice, which was designed with elbow sleeves, and the lace motif was repeated on the skirt of controlled fullness, completed by an aisle-wide train extending to cotillion length. Her mantilla of illusion was banded with Alencon lace.

A graduate of Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., the bride is a former student at Nebraska Wesleyan University. Mr. Black, who is serving with the Armed Forces, also attended Nebraska Wesleyan University.

The marriage of Lt. Allie Bett Lewis, USAF Nurse Corps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Edward Lewis, to Lt. John Bishop Cabana, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bishop Cabana of New Castle, N.H., was solemnized Saturday, March 20, in the chapel at Travis Air Force Base, Calif. The 11 o'clock service was solemnized by the Rev. Patrick O'Lenny.

Lt. Nancy Jean Radler of Salem, Ohio, frocked in cherry pink crepe, was the honor attendant, and the bridesmaids, costumed in mint green, were Mrs. Donald Hugh MacGlashan, Windsor, Conn.; Mrs. Lyle Thomas Jones, Minneapolis, Minn.; and Lt. Antoinette Carner, Evansville, Ind.

The bride chose white silk faille for her wedding gown. Pearl embroidery accented the slim waist of the long-sleeved bodice, and the bell skirt continued into a chapel train. A circlet of tucked silk held to the head her illusion veil, and she carried a cascade of gardenias, stephanotis and ivy.

The couple will reside at Travis Air Force Base, where the bridegroom, a graduate of the University of New Hampshire, is stationed as a navigator. A graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University and Barnes Hospital School of Nursing, St. Louis, Mo., the bride is a member of the Travis hospital nursing staff.

BETHANY PARK HEIGHTS

Here's a Bethany Park Heights family that is lucky enough to be invited out to dinner on Sunday. Let's hope it's a sunny day to complement the sunny plans that are made for Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Roose and their daughter Miss Patricia Ledyard.

Their big day ahead calls for fair weather because not only are they going to be at Raymond early in the morning for a sunrise service at the Raymond Presbyterian Church, but they are planning to take a boat trip down the "Mighty Missouri" in the afternoon.

But wait a minute, we don't want to leave out the remainder of the morning. The Roose family will be on hand at the 11 o'clock service at the Presbyterian Church for the baptism of their friends, the five members of the Willard Hudkins family. Mr. and Mrs. Hudkins and their three children will all receive baptismal rites at the morning service.

Then, it's on to the home of Mrs. Roose's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clem Passwater, (who live just outside of Raymond) for an Easter dinner.

The most exciting part of the day will come in the afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. Roose and Patricia will join friends in Omaha for a three-hour boat trip down the Missouri River. On their return they will dock at Plattsmouth.

Incidentally, the Roose family has some bright days coming up this summer. Patricia will be married in July and there will be another boating trip. This time, it will be in Canada.

Judge Sets Hearing On Bill

. . . REGARDING HABEAS CORPUS PETITIONS

U.S. District Judge Robert Van Pelt Thursday issued an order setting a hearing to determine what impact a recently passed Unicameral bill will have on habeas corpus cases now pending in federal court.

The court order follows the filing by the State Attorney General's office of motions to dismiss 13 habeas corpus petitions filed by inmates of the Nebraska Penitentiary on grounds that post-conviction relief has been made available at the state level.

The Legislature passed the measure, LB836, last Friday and with an emergency clause it went into effect with Governor Morrison's signature Monday.

LB836 provides a post-conviction relief procedure in state cases, whereby a person who feels his civil rights were violated can seek a hearing in the state district court where he was convicted.

The law was designed to relieve the state attorney general's office the burden of having to represent the state in all the habeas corpus cases in federal court.

It also relieves the federal court of the load of habeas corpus cases resulting from recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions and provides a state remedy similar to the one offered under federal law.

Judge Van Pelt ordered that the state motions in the 13 cases along with all pending cases be set for hearing Friday, May 14.

At the hearing, Judge Van Pelt said he will hear all motions and consider the impact of LB836 on all pending state habeas corpus cases and determine the content of the order to be issued, if one is to be issued.

In his order, the Judge said, "The court upon its own motion must consider the impact of this enactment upon all habeas corpus cases pending in this court involving state prisoners."

King Tries Habeas Corpus; Gets 4 More Years Instead

Omaha (UPI)—David King went back to state prison for four more years Thursday, the price he will have to pay for trying to win a legal bid for freedom.

The 33-year-old King had been sentenced in 1959 to serve eight years in the state penitentiary at Lincoln for robbing the Friendly Liquor Store here. With time off, he would have been free April 26.

Instead, he applied for a writ of habeas corpus and retracted his guilty plea. He had been struck and handcuffed to a chair during police questioning, he said.

But in a hearing, Douglas County Dist. Judge John Murphy denied King's motion for freedom and sentenced him to serve four more years for the crime.

"I got the chance," King told the court. "But I was unable to prove that I did not commit this crime, so I imagine I must take the consequences.

"If the court had treated me as fairly six years ago as it did this time, I would not be here now."

Judge Murphy noted in his decision the newly won legal recourse to habeas corpus writs could often hurt prisoner as much as help them. It could be, he said, an illusory vision of freedom that does not exist.

Professor Discusses 'So-Called Open Society'

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

With repeated jabs at Barry Goldwater and Republicans, Indiana University professor Dr. Herbert J. Muller toid a small University of Nebraska audience Thursday his idea about the "prospects of a so-called open society."

However, the English and government instructor recounted recent revolutionary events and declared that they totaled reasons why "you should not expect a confident diagnosis from me."

Muller explained that the open society was "more open to change and more free because it has to make room for creative, independent people thinking on their own." But he reminded those who prefer an open society that they "must face the record that it is not the most natural kind."

Author of "The Uses of the Past" and six other books, Muller is also scheduled to speak at the Unitarian Church of Lincoln on "Freedom in the Modern World" Friday at 8 p.m.

Speaking about the threats to an open society, "which cannot be minimized because some people are never familiar enough with them," Muller discussed the growing and increasingly uncontrollable bureaucracy and the authoritarian personality.

"In spite of the growth of bureaucracy, the democratic process has been maintained," Professor Muller told his audience.

"Ultimately the people do have some control for they have preserved the essential conditions" of elections, discussion and criticism, a climate of respect for the right of private associations to represent the people, a sufficiently responsible government, and a sufficiently responsible opposition.

It is "impossible to predict the prospects of an open society," Muller has concluded, "but the basis reasons for uncertainty involve the reasons for hope."

Mortician-Turned-Politician Subject Of Stromer Thesis

A Nebraska legislator's doctoral dissertation may blossom into the first major published biography of one of the state's most colorful political figures, the late U.S. Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry.

Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln, who is spending the Unicameral's Easter recess "methodically and painfully" digesting the papers of Wherry and his U.S. senatorial colleague, Hugh Butler, said Thursday he plans after the summer to expand the doctoral dissertation into a full political biography.

Wherry was a Pawnee City lawyer - merchant-mortician who rocked the political world by ousting Nebraska's famed fighting liberal. George W. Norris, from the United States Senate in 1942. What makes Wherry's political life even more notable and worthy of biographical autopsy, Stromer said, was the speed with which he, although a freshman, moved up to become Republican whip and floor leader.

Sen. Stromer, as a student of political science, has completed all course requirements for his doctor's degree and is concentrating currently on completing his doctoral thesis on "The Making of a Political Leader: Kenneth S. Wherry and the U.S. Senate."

The lawmaker and part-time professor said he plans a trip to Washington and other eastern points in late April and early May for face-to-face interviews with erstwhile associates of Wherry, in quest of information to go into the biography.

The interviewed personages will include former Vice President Richard Nixon; former National GOP Chairman Herb Brownell; former Republican presidential candidate Tom Dewey; former vice presidential candidate John Bricker of Columbus, Ohio; Scott Lucas, Leverett Saltonstall, Bourke Hickenlooper, Everett Dirksen, Author William S. White and others.

Sen. Stromer said he has received two "nibbles" from prospective publishers of the projected book—the University of Nebraska Press and a subsidiary of Random House.

Final Plans For Paunch Removal Plant Received

State Sanitation Engineer T. A. Filipi received final plans and specifications for Omaha's $2 million paunch removal and incineration plant Thursday.

They arrived on the target date set in February by the federal government and health officials of Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska.

Filipi said there now is no reason why a contract for the plant cannot be awarded by July 1 and the plant be put into operation by December of 1966, the other deadlines set by the health officials.

The timetable was set by the conferees from the U.S. Welfare Department and the four states who insisted that Omaha provide as soon as possible waste treatment facilities to abate pollution of the Missouri River.

The proposed plant, which will be constructed in the Mandan Park area on the river south of Omaha, will cost $2,159,000 and will be the largest plant of its kind in the world. It will remove paunch manure from the wastes being dumped into the river by Omaha's packing plants.

Paunch manure is taken from the second stomach of slaughtered cows. The material is not usable as fertilizer or for any other purpose.

In Nebraska, after golf beer's the one... for good taste, good fun

After a hard-played 18 holes, it's good to settle down on a soft chair in the club house and add up the score with friends. What better time for the drink that scores with almost every golfer—cool, thirst-quenching beer? Yes, beer's great to relax with, great for refreshment, great for taste. So whatever your sport—boating or baseball—swimming or tennis—relax afterwards with the zestful taste of beer.

ABBY
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is one of those big-hearted, generous, "treat-the gang" kind of men who is leading us to the poorhouse. When we go to his family's for dinner, he takes most of the food. When we go out with friends, my husband fights for the bill, and ends up paying for everything. Not only that, but he tips like a millionaire and he thinks nothing of lending people money when he knows he'll never see it again.

It's nice to be such a big-hearted guy, but we can't afford it. Our children wear rags and I am afraid to answer the phone for fear it's an angry bill collector. I have pleaded with him to let me handle the money, but he never does. What on earth ails a man like mine?

SECURITY HUNGRY

DEAR "HUNGRY": Your husband is "hungry," too. Hungry for praise and thanks. He wants desperately to make an impression.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps the young people in this community are different from those elsewhere, but it seems as though the girls are always thinking up ways to get the boys to take them out. Their latest trick is to organize a girl-ask-boy party, which I think is all right once in a while, but these girls are overdoing it. My problem is my 15-year-old daughter.

She is quite popular and has her share of dates, but when one of these girl-ask-boy affairs comes up, she always asks a boy who has never asked her to go anywhere with him. I try to tell her that she only makes herself look foolish, and she should ask one of the boys who has asked her out, but she won't listen to me Abby. She reads your column. Maybe she'll listen to you. If I am wrong about this, please tell me.

MOTHER OF A STUBBORN GIRL

DEAR MOTHER: She probably won't listen to me either but, even though the temptation is great to get a "new" boy interested by inviting him to a girl-ask-boy party, the wise girl asks a boy who has shown enough interest in her to have invited her somewhere.

League Program

At their recent convention at Grand Island, members of the Nebraska League of Women Voters chose for their current agenda the study of "sanitation, public health inspection and related licensing functions in Nebraska", a topic suggested by the Grand Island league.

The state league also will continue its support of its current recommendations which include improvement in the method of selection of judges, mandatory redistricting of the legislature after each federal census, a nonpartisan legislature, and fiscal reform measures to improve fiscal procedures in state government.

The delegates also elected the proposed slate of officers headed by Mrs. James Weber of Lincoln, president, and voted to accept the invitation of the Lincoln league for the 1967 convention.

Live and Learn

A weekend always includes special activities—Such as, maybe traveling out of town to spend some time with friends.

If you are traveling, you know how easy it is to scuff your shoes while driving, or while getting in and out of cars. A new product called Heel 'n Toe will come in handy to cover a scuffed or nicked heel or toe. No longer does a woman have to use ineffective lipstick or crayon when she carries this easy touch-up kit with her. The kit comes in seven basic colors—black, brown, blue, scarlet, yellow, white, and bone—from which an endless variety of other colors and shades can be created. Virtually any color can be matched.

It's not too late to "glow" yourself on Easter morning, or anytime, for that matter. This glow can be achieved with help of a new beauty aid called Porcelain Pads, delicate pink wafers moistened with a special liquid that gives make-up the beautiful but slight glaze of rare and delicate china. To use, press (do not rub) one pad gently over the face and throat after applying make-up, then powder lightly. Porcelain Pads do not affect the matte finish of liquid or cream base. They merely "set" the look of the make-up and aid its lasting quality as a fine varnish "sets" a painting but does not alter its intrinsic beauty and color.

Porcelain Pads are designed to give a delicate luminous touch that echoes the Marie Antoinette and the Dresden doll look at the turn of the century.

QUIZ

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Clubs, North having opened the bidding as dealer with one diamond. North leads the queen of diamonds. How would you play the hand?

West		East
♠ Q 3	N	♠ K J 6 4
♥ A Q 5 2	W E	♥ 9 7
♦ —	S	♦ A 8 7
♣ A K Q 10 9 7 3		♣ J 6 4 2

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts. North, who overcalled your opening heart bid with one spade, leads the jack of diamonds. How would you play the hand?

West		East
♠ K 8 3	N	♠ 10 5
♥ Q 10 9 6 2	W E	♥ A K J 7 3
♦ A 5	S	♦ Q 6 4 2
♣ K Q 4		♣ J 8

1. It is practically certain that North has the ace of spades and king of hearts, in view of his opening bid. It would therefore be wrong to rely on a heart finesse to bring home the slam when there is a way of assuring the contract on the reasonable supposition that North has the ace of spades.

The first important step is to ruff the queen of diamonds. This play is vital, since the play of the ace from dummy would force declarer to choose a discard before he is in a position to know what to discard.

Then, after drawing the missing trumps, declarer leads the three of spades. This play knocks North out of the box. If he goes up with the ace, declarer discards three hearts on the K-J of spades and ace of diamonds to make the slam, while if North ducks the spade, dummy wins with the jack and West then discards the queen of spades on the ace of diamonds. Declarer now loses only a heart trick, since he can ruff his other two heart losers in dummy.

2. North is likely to have the A-Q or A-J of spades as well as the ace of clubs for his overcall. Assuming this to be the case, West can assure the contract by ducking the jack of diamonds in dummy's hand as well as his own. Declarer then wins any return, draws trumps, and forces out the ace of clubs. He winds up losing a diamond, a club and a spade, since he can discard a spade from dummy on one of his high clubs.

It would be dangerous to cover the jack of diamonds with the queen because South might cover with the king and later take the lead with a diamond to make the killing spade return through the king. The duck of the jack virtually assures the contract, provided North, as expected, has the ace of clubs.

Chapel Services

Miss Marcia Jean Tunnicliff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Tunnicliff of Clarinda, Iowa, became the bride of Benjamin Allan Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan F. Black of Broken Bow, at a candlelight ceremony, Saturday evening, April 3, at Clarinda. The lines of the service were read by the Rev. D. C. Davis.

Shealth frocks in petal pink were worn by the maid of honor, Miss Donna Marie Black of Broken Bow, sister of the bridegroom; and the bridesmaids, Miss Merrily Newton, Ponca; Miss Diane Rearwin, Santa Barbara, Calif.; and Miss Lyndelle Jones, Broken Arrow, Okla.

Kent McCloughan of Broken Bow, served his cousin as best man, and seating the guests were Joseph Robert Tunnicliff, Clarinda, brother of the bride; Donald Skeen, Lincoln; Michael Fariss and Irvan Clark, Broken Bow.

The bride chose white silk organza over taffeta for her wedding gown. Alencon lace applique patterned the snug bodice, which was designed with elbow sleeves, and the lace motif was repeated on the skirt of controlled fullness, completed by an aisle-wide train extending to cotillion length. Her mantilla of illusion was banded with Alencon lace.

A graduate of Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., the bride is a former student at Nebraska Wesleyan University. Mr. Black, who is serving with the Armed Forces, also attended Nebraska Wesleyan University.

The marriage of Lt. Allie Bett Lewis, USAF Nurse Corps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Edward Lewis, to Lt. John Bishop Cabana, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bishop Cabana of New Castle, N.H., was solemnized Saturday, March 20, in the chapel at Travis Air Force Base, Calif. The 11 o'clock service was solemnized by the Rev. Patrick O'Lenny.

Lt. Nancy Jean Radler of Salem, Ohio, frocked in cherry pink crepe, was the honor attendant, and the bridesmaids, costumed in mint green, were Mrs. Donald Hugh MacGlashan, Windsor, Conn.; Mrs. Lyle Thomas Jones, Minneapolis, Minn.; and Lt. Antoinette Carner, Evansville, Ind.

The bride chose white silk faille for her wedding gown. Pearl embroidery accented the slim waist of the long-sleeved bodice, and the bell skirt continued into a chapel train. A circlet of tucked silk held to the head her illusion veil, and she carried a cascade of gardenias, stephanotis and ivy.

The couple will reside at Travis Air Force Base, where the bridegroom, a graduate of the University of New Hampshire, is stationed as a navigator. A graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University and Barnes Hospital School of Nursing, St. Louis, Mo., the bride is a member of the Travis hospital nursing staff.

A Farewell Courtesy

In farewell courtesy to Miss Charlene Wagner, Miss Martha Baston was a luncheon hostess at her home on Thursday. The guest list included 14 of Miss Wagner's associates at Lincoln General Hospital where she has been a member of the staff of nurses.

Miss Wagner will leave soon for Minneapolis where she will attend an anesthesia school.

PARTIES

A prenuptial honoree on Friday evening will be Miss Laura Margaret Shaner, whose marriage to G. Neale Shaner will be an event of Easter Sunday.

In courtesy to the soon-to-be bride, Mrs. Jerry Daniels of Ankeny, Iowa, will be hostess to a group of guests at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ray Bentall. A kitchen shower will be presented to the honoree.

On Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn C. Shaner will be host and hostess honoring their son and his fiancee. The members of the family and bridal party have been invited to a prenuptial dinner, to be held at the Clayton House.

Recent courtesies given in honor of Miss Shaner, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shaner, include the party given last Tuesday evening by Mrs. Mary Doak and Mrs. Allen Trottman at the home of Mrs. Doak.

Also entertaining recently for the bride-elect was Mrs. C. I. Anderson who was a luncheon and shower hostess at her home.

For the ceremony, which will be solemnized at 4 o'clock at First-Plymouth Church, Miss Shaner has chosen Mrs. Jerry Daniels as her matron of honor. Mrs. J. D. Schafer, Jr., Muscatine, Iowa, will attend her sister as bridesmatron, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Shaner's sister, Miss Janet Shaner, and her fiance's sister, Miss Susan Shaner of Santa Barbara, Calif. Miss Lynn Haney will be the flower girl, and lighting the chancel candles will be the bride-elect's brothers, Robert Shaner and George Shaner.

NEWS

in suburban areas

A Good Friday morning to you. This is the beginning of the holiday weekend and we hope for you it will be a delightful one.

Today, some suburban homes already have the holiday spirit. The grade school children are home enjoying a day of vacation from school, and in a few short hours the college students, will be bounding home for an entire week of vacation from classes.

BETHANY PARK HEIGHTS

Here's a Bethany Park Heights family that is lucky enough to be invited out to dinner on Sunday. Let's hope it's a sunny day to complement the sunny plans that are made for Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Roose and their daughter Miss Patricia Ledyard.

Their big day ahead calls for fair weather because not only are they going to be at Raymond early in the morning for a sunrise service at the Raymond Presbyterian Church, but they are planning to take a boat trip down the "Mighty Missouri" in the afternoon.

But wait a minute, we don't want to leave out the remainder of the morning. The Roose family will be on hand at the 11 o'clock service at the Presbyterian Church for the baptism of their friends, the five members of the Willard Hudkins family. Mr. and Mrs. Hudkins and their three children will all receive baptismal rites at the morning service.

Then, it's on to the home of Mrs. Roose's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clem Passwater, (who live just outside of Raymond) for an Easter dinner.

The most exciting part of the day will come in the afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. Roose and Patricia will join friends in Omaha for a three-hour boat trip down the Missouri River. On their return they will dock at Plattsmouth.

Incidentally, the Roose family has some bright days coming up this summer. Patricia will be married in July and there will be another boating trip. This time, it will be in Canada.

Officers

The members of the University of Nebraska Faculty Women's Newcomers Club elected Mrs. Ward Sybauts president of the group at the recent monthly meeting.

Also named to office were Mrs. Dean Rugg, vice president; Mrs. Dewaine Alcorn, secretary; and Mrs. Carl Yost, treasurer.

♣ K Q 4		♣ J 8

1. It is practically certain that North has the ace of spades and king of hearts, in view of his opening bid. It would therefore be wrong to rely on a heart finesse to bring home the slam when there is a way of assuring the contract on the reasonable supposition that North has the ace of spades.

The first important step is to ruff the queen of diamonds. This play is vital, since the play of the ace from dummy would force declarer to choose a discard before he is in a position to know what to discard.

Then, after drawing the missing trumps, declarer leads the three of spades. This play knocks North out of the box. If he goes up with the ace, declarer discards three hearts on the K-J of spades and ace of diamonds to make the slam, while if North ducks the spade, dummy wins with the jack and West then discards the queen of spades on the ace of diamonds. Declarer now loses only a heart trick, since he can ruff his other two heart losers in dummy.

2. North is likely to have the A-Q or A-J of spades as well as the ace of clubs for his overcall. Assuming this to be the case, West can assure the contract by ducking the jack of diamonds in dummy's hand as well as his own. Declarer then wins any return, draws trumps, and forces out the ace of clubs. He winds up losing a diamond, a club and a spade, since he can discard a spade from dummy on one of his high clubs.

It would be dangerous to cover the jack of diamonds with the queen because South might cover with the king and later take the lead with a diamond to make the killing spade return through the king. The duck of the jack virtually assures the contract, provided North, as expected, has the ace of clubs.

State To Take Advantage Of School Act

State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller said Thursday Nebraska is preparing to take full advantage of the new Federal school-aid act, but much will "depend upon local initiative of school districts."

The state is expected to receive about $8,688,000 during the next fiscal year to improve elementary and secondary education for children from low-income families.

"There appears to be a great deal of flexibility in the program," Dr. Miller said. "Local school boards will be able to use their imagination and initiative in planning for improved education opportunities."

He views the state department's role as disseminating broad guidelines and making "value judgments" on local plans submitted for approval of funds.

The estimated money distribution for the state is $6,793,000 for educating children of low-income families, $775,000 for improvement of school library resources, $879,000 for "shared time" educational centers and services used by both public and private schools, and $220,500 for grants to beef up the state education department.

While the program will benefit all education in the state, the distribution formula gives greater weight to areas with a greater percentage of low-income families.

Dr. Miller said the largest fund category can be used for just about anything that will improve education — more teachers, more books, expanded curriculums and new equipment.

At the moment, planning is only limited by the imagination, he said, but no firm plan can be developed until more information is received from Washington, he said. "We hope to have more very soon."

Dr. Miller said school districts and educators have begun inquiring about the program, but department can only advise they begin thinking what is needed to improve educational opportunities for their areas.

As to "shared-time" educational centers that can be used by both public and private schools, the commissioner said possibilities for funding are libraries, driver education facilities or vocational-technical facilities.

According to preliminary federal estimates, 23 Nebraska counties will be eligible for $100,000 more in federal funds to improve education of deprived children.

Nebraska has 35,995 persons aged five to 17 who come from families with an annual income below $2,000. This is 11% of the Nebraska population.

Dr. Miller said a state plan will be ready for the school year beginning in September of dispersal of funds if Congress makes the necessary appropriations.

NWU's Rogers Will Not Enter Congress Race

Dr. Vance D. Rogers, president of Nebraska Wesleyan University, Thursday ruled out any possibility he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress from the first district.

He said, "After a great deal of soul searching and intensive thought and consideration I have decided that it will not be possible for me to be a candidate.

"Because of the nature of my position at Nebraska Wesleyan I do not feel that I can enter the field of public service at this time."

Man Passes Forged Check, Gets 5 Years

Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele Thursday sentenced an Omaha man to five years in the Nebraska Penal Complex and fined him $25 on a forgery charge.

Senators Disagree On Quitting Date

By ODELL HANSON
AP Writer

Nebraska state senators, who Thursday were enjoying their first real lawmaking holiday since Jan. 5, are generally dubious that the current 75th legislative session can be completed by early July, as Speaker Kenneth Bowen has predicted.

The Red Cloud senator Wednesday forecast adjournment by July 2, a full two weeks earlier than the July 18 finishing date for the predecessor 1963 session, longest in history.

"I can't see how we possibly can get through by then (July 2)," said freshman Sen. H. C. Crandall of Curtis. He predicted a windup "not before the middle of July."

Out By Three

"Wrong by three weeks," said Sen. Claire Holmquist of Oakland of Bowen's forecast.

And Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth, while expecting a finish during the latter half of July, said the session could "very easily go into August," despite the fact the work is "moving along pretty well."

Disagreement with the Bowen forecast was not unanimous.

No Change

Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper said he was sticking with an earlier July 1 prediction.

And the most veteran observer of the Unicameral scene, Legislative Clerk Hugo Srb, who earlier had foreseen a finish by July 1, said he does not think the current session will run as long as the last one, statistics notwithstanding.

A box score comparison Thursday showed the current Legislature has disposed of fewer bills and has considerably more unfinished business than had the 1964 Legislature at the same stage.

—Bills disposed of 391 (441).
—Bills still in committee awaiting hearing or action 235 (173).

—Bills passed 188 (265).
—Bills killed or failed on final reading 159 (149).

More On File

Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln, who said he hoped for a finish by July 4 but regarded July 10 as a more likely date, cautioned against undue preoccupation with an early adjournment.

"I hope we don't get so involved in batting down the number of days that we get caught up by inadvertent errors later," he said. This has happened in the past in haste to adjourn, he noted.

Waits For Birthday

Sen. Stan Matzke of Milford predicted July 27 as the ending date for a particular reason—it's his birthday anniversary.

"In my four sessions here they have never sang 'happy birthday' to me," he said.

"This time we're going to stay until my birthday, they are going to sing 'happy birthday' and then I'll move to adjourn, sine die."

It's customary for lawmakers to serenade a senator whose birthday occurs while the Legislature is in session.

Sen. Rudolf Kokes of Ord saw an early July finish as doubtful—"if we continue to scrap over every little issue."

Sen. Albert Kjar of Lexington said the session will require a little more time than Sen. Bowen envisions.

Cooling Helps

But Sen. Ross Rasmussen noted that committees will largely finish their hearings this month, so all-day sessions can begin in May. The Capitol's new air conditioning system should lead to greater productivity, he said.

Rasmussen said he was encouraged also by the fact that disposition of interest-credit bills did not take as long as expected, the standing committees are doing good work and are not being reversed as much as in previous sessions.

Srb praised the lawmakers for "not sidestepping the issues" and disposing of such potentially time consuming subjects as reapportionment and time sales legislation. He noted also that the first budget package will soon be out.

But Sen. Ruhnke suggested that interest-credit legislation is about the only major subject so far disposed of. Still to be tackled are public power, the broadened tax base and educational subjects, including the trade school issue.

Bumper College Crop Seen In 20% Application Increase

Officials said Thursday the predicted record high in enrollments next fall at the University of Nebraska and the four state colleges is being confirmed by applications.

If the normal percentages of applicants become students, the total University enrollment will climb 1,600 students next fall.

He said 700 more freshmen are expected than the 3,289 enrolled last fall.

Dr. Freeman Decker, state colleges coordinator, said entrance applications "are almost as high right now as they were just before school started last year."

Total enrollment at Chadron, Kearney, Peru and Wayne hit 7,255 last fall, but 9,300 are expected to enroll this fall, he said.

State To Take Advantage Of School Act

State Education Commis-ioner Floyd Miller said 'hursday Nebraska is pre-aring to take full advantage f the new Federal school-aid act, but much will "depend upon local initiative of school districts."

The state is expected to receive about $8,688,000 during the next fiscal year to improve elementary and secondary education for children from low-income families.

"There appears to be a great deal of flexibility in the program," Dr. Miller said. "Local school boards will be able to use their imagination and initiative in planning for improved education opportunities."

He views the state department's role as disseminating broad guidelines and making "value judgments" on local plans submitted for approval of funds.

The estimated money distribution for the state is $6,793,000 for educating children of low-income families, $775,000 for improvement of school library resources, $879,000 for "shared time" educational centers and services used by both public and private schools, and $220,500 for grants to beef up the state education department.

While the program will benefit all education in the state, the distribution formula gives greater weight to areas with a greater percentage of low-income families.

Dr. Miller said the largest fund category can be used for just about anything that will improve education — more teachers, more books, expanded curriculums and new equipment.

At the moment, planning is only limited by the imagination, he said, but no firm plan can be developed until more information is received from Washington, he said. "We hope to have more very soon."

Dr. Miller said school districts and educators have begun inquiring about the program, but department can only advise they begin thinking what is needed to improve educational opportunities for their areas.

As to "shared-time" educational centers that can be used by both public and private schools, the commissioner said possibilities for funding are libraries, driver education facilities or vocational-technical facilities.

According to preliminary federal estimates, 23 Nebraska counties will be eligible for $100,000 more in federal funds to improve education of deprived children.

Nebraska has 35,995 persons aged five to 17 who come from families with an annual income below $2,000. This is 11% of the Nebraska population.

Dr. Miller said a state plan will be ready for the school year beginning in September of dispersal of funds if Congress makes the necessary appropriations.

Bumper College Crop Seen In 20% Application Increase

Officials said Thursday the predicted record high in enrollments next fall at the University of Nebraska and the four state colleges is being confirmed by applications.

If the normal percentages of applicants become students, the total University enrollment will climb 1,600 students next fall.

He said 700 more freshmen are expected than the 3,289 enrolled last fall.

Dr. Freeman Decker, state colleges coordinator, said entrance applications "are almost as high right now as they were just before school started last year."

Total enrollment at Chadron, Kearney, Peru and Wayne hit 7,255 last fall, but 9,300 are expected to enroll this fall, he said.

Senators Disagree On Quitting Date

By ODELL HANSON
AP Writer

Nebraska state senators, who Thursday were enjoying their first real lawmaking holiday since Jan. 5, are generally dubious that the current 75th legislative session can be completed by early July, as Speaker Kenneth Bowen has predicted.

The Red Cloud senator Wednesday forecast adjournment by July 2, a full two weeks earlier than the July 18 finishing date for the predecessor 1963 session, longest in history.

"I can't see how we possibly can get through by then (July 2)," said freshman Sen. H. C. Crandall of Curtis. He predicted a windup "not before the middle of July."

Out By Three

"Wrong by three weeks," said Sen. Claire Holmquist of Oakland of Bowen's forecast.

And Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth, while expecting a finish during the latter half of July, said the session could "very easily go into August," despite the fact the work is "moving along pretty well."

Disagreement with the Bowen forecast was not unanimous.

No Change

Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper said he was sticking with an earlier July 1 prediction.

And the most veteran observer of the Unicameral scene, Legislative Clerk Hugo Srb, who earlier had foreseen a finish by July 1, said he does not think the current session will run as long as the last one, statistics notwithstanding.

A box score comparison Thursday showed the current Legislature has disposed of fewer bills and has considerably more unfinished business than had the 1964 Legislature at the same stage.

—Bills introduced 884 (781).

—Bills still in committee awaiting hearing or action 235 (173).

—Bills passed 188 (265).

—Bills killed or failed on final reading 159 (149).

More On File

Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln, who said he hoped for a finish by July 4 but regarded July 10 as a more likely date, cautioned against undue preoccupation with an early adjournment.

"I hope we don't get so involved in batting down the number of days that we get caught up by inadvertent errors later," he said. This has happened in the past in haste to adjourn, he noted.

Waits For Birthday

Sen. Stan Matzke of Milford predicted July 27 as the ending date for a particular reason—it's his birthday anniversary.

"In my four sessions here they have never sang 'happy birthday' to me," he said.

"This time we're going to stay until my birthday, they are going to sing 'happy birthday' and then I'll move to adjourn, sine die."

It's customary for lawmakers to serenade a senator whose birthday occurs while the Legislature is in session.

Sen. Rudolf Kokes of Ord saw an early July finish as doubtful—"if we continue to scrap over every little issue."

Sen. Albert Kjar of Lexington said the session will require a little more time than Sen. Bowen envisions.

Cooling Helps

But Sen. Ross Rasmussen noted that committees will largely finish their hearings this month, so all-day sessions can begin in May. The Capitol's new air conditioning system should lead to greater productivity, he said.

Rasmussen said he was encouraged also by the fact that disposition of interest-credit bills did not take as long as expected, the standing committees are doing good work and are not being reversed as much as in previous sessions.

Srb praised the lawmakers for "not sidestepping the issues" and disposing of such potentially time consuming subjects as reapportionment and time sales legislation. He noted also that the first budget package will soon be out.

But Sen. Ruhnke suggested that interest-credit legislation is about the only major subject so far disposed of. Still to be tackled are public power, the broadened tax base and educational subjects, including the trade school issue.

Passing Stressed At OU

"We were trying to find out who could throw, who could catch it and who could run the correct cuts."

Jones found that some of his best catchers were playing defense when the passes were thrown. Thirteen were intercepted and six were run back for touchdowns. Carl McAdams scampered 24 yards with an interception for a TD. Jimmy Lynn went 48, Alan Henderson 30 and Bob Stephenson 13. Ashley Rutherford and Gordon Wheeler also romped for touchdowns with pirated passes.

"Our pass defense was pretty sharp," cracked Jones. "We just worked on eight running plays and 12 passing plays all week."

The Sooner passing figures saw John Hammond hit 10 of 23 with five interceptions, Jim Burgar four of 14 with four interceptions, Mike Ringer four of 15 with one interception, Gene Cagle three of nine with no interceptions, Wayne Nelson none of three with one interception and John Stidham none of five with two interceptions.

Lining Up Comets

One of the first players to line up with the Lincoln Comets, the Capital City entry in the Professional Football League of America, is Sam Sample, former Hastings High School and Hastings College athlete.

Sample is now coaching at Wasatch Academy in Mt. Pleasant, Utah, but has signed a contract at Geneva for the coming year. Sample wasted little time in contacting Lincoln officials after hearing of the pro plans.

However, the Comets likely are going to face a bidding war with the Omaha entry over former University of Nebraska players. The Omaha Mustangs have already signed Maynard Smidt and another NU gridder who was being eyed by the Comets has committed himself to Omaha.

A few others reportedly are not interested in the semi-pro operation and won't play for either Omaha or Lincoln.

Notre Dame Names

This spring's Notre Dame football roster includes several names that will please the Fighting Irish faithful who recall the tongue-twisting names of the past.

Vying for the quarterback job vacated by John Huarte are such names as Alex Bonvechio, Bill Zloch and Buster O'Brien. How can the latter fail at Notre Dame.

For other names, how about end Don Gmitter, linebacker Jim Yacknow, or tackle Rudy Konieczny.

—KANSAS SLUGGER LAGGING—

Big 8 Batting King In Danger

Kansas City, Mo. — If Kansas' Steve McGreevy hopes to defend his Big Eight Conference batting championship, he's going to have to dispose of a couple of first-year men from Oklahoma State and veterans from Colorado and Oklahoma.

Last year, McGreevy had clear sailing practically all the way to the title, finishing with a .421 mark. Hurt early in the season this time around, McGreevy really didn't slide into the groove until the conference season started, picking up five safeties in his first 10 tries for a neat .500 average.

Yet this leaves him a distant fifth in the early going, but still far enough back to make it rough to repeat, particularly since the leader, Tony Stark, a junior college transfer at Oklahoma State, is not used to hitting below .400.

Currently Stark, described as a spray hitter, has been nothing but hard to put on the bench. He has collected six straight hits in his eight official times at bat for the Cowboys, a whopping .750 mark. Right behind Stark, with a .600 average, is Colorado's Pete Petrafeso, a converted first baseman. When the season started, Buff Coach Frank Prentup halfway apologized for having Petrafeso in the lineup by saying "Petrafeso will be our first baseman because we don't have any other candidates."

Three pitchers divide the honors at the top in this department—Stan Bahnsen of Nebraska and Scott Morton and Tim Van Galder of Iowa State. All three have completed their first Conference games without giving up an earned run.

Randy Matson Main Attraction At KU Relays

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Lawrence, Kan.—In a meet that is supposed to focus attenion on baton passers, Texas A & M sophomore Randy Matson can be expected to be the main attraction for the 40th annual Kansas Relays here this weekend.

And the big sophomore won't even come close to touching a baton unless one happens to be lying in his way near the shot put or discus areas.

Matson, who already has surpassed the world's best in the shot and who has topped the NCAA mark in the discus, will lead a parade of top athletes into action at the relays meet that is being dedicated to Don Pierce, Kansas sports information director, who was killed in an auto accident New Year's Eve on a Kansas turnpike.

The 19-year-old 260-pounder has thrown the shot put 67-11¼, topping the world mark of 67-10 held by Dallas Long, and the discus 201-5½ to surpass the NCAA mark by nearly 8 feet.

But Matson is only one of a galaxy of track and field stars that includes such names as Charlie Greene of Nebraska, Clarence Robinson of New Mexico, Steve Herndon of Missouri, John Camien of Emporia State, Robin Lingle of Missouri and Bernie Rivers of New Mexico.

The Husker sprint medley quartet of Greene, Crook, Jim Wendt and Lynn Headley have gained a spot in the event along with Southern Illinois, Abilene Christian, Oklahoma, Baylor and Missouri.

The full field of events get under way at 9 a.m. today after Thursday's one event, the 10,000-meter run.

Greene's first individual action will come this afternoon at 2:10 in the 100-yard preliminaries of the university division with the finals set for Saturday afternoon at 2:05.

The Husker sprint medley team will run at 2:30 today as a final event.

Matson will throw the discus at 2:30 today and the shot at 1:30 Saturday.

The Husker 440-yard relay team tied an NU varsity record in winning the event at the Texas Relays with a :40.5 clocking, the best time in the Big Eight this season.

All Big Eight Conference teams have athletes entered in the meet, one of two major relays tests leading up to the conference meet at Lincoln in May. Most of the athletes competing here will continue on to the Drake Relays at Des Moines next weekend.

Eight Kansas Relays' records have already been surpassed and four others have been closely approached.

In addition to Matson in the shot and discus, other individual met marks have been toppled by Robinson in the broad jump with 25-6¼ and Herndon in the high jump at 6-9¼.

YANCEY LEADS CLASSIC

65 Tops Early Houston Field

. . . BLANCAS ONE STROKE BACK

Houston (AP) — Bert Yancey, a former West Point cadet who takes his wife's predictions seriously fired a six-under-par 31-34—65 Thursday for the first round lead in the $95,000 added Houston Golf Classic.

Yancey's par breaker included six birdies and no bogies on the 7,233-yard, par 35-36—71 Sharpstown Country Club course and it matched the score predicted by his pretty wife, Linda, as the 26-year-old Florida native teed off on the windswept layout.

It also gave him a one-stroke lead over a gallery favorite, Homero Blancas, the 1964 all-service champion who returned to his hometown this week to make his debut as a pro after his release from army service.

Blancas, former University of Houston star and a 1963 national amateur quarterfinalist, was five under par through 15 holes but closed with three pars for a 33-33—66.

Tied at 67 were Bobby Nichols, last year's PGA champion, Buddy Weaver, a young Texas pro, and Ken Still, a pro tour veteran of four years from Tacoma, Wash.

A seven-way tie at 68 included Mike Souchak, the defending champion, and Bruce Devlin, the Australian who shot a course record 63 in a Wednesday practice round that was part of a $2,500 pro-am event.

Yancey, playing out of Philadelphia, thought his round was so good it was a shame so few people saw it.

"It was about as perfect a round as I ever had but the gallery included only six people—my wife, mother-in-law, and four guys following Jerry Pittman," Yancey said. "I drove perfectly and putted real well."

Pittman, playing in the same threesome had a 70.

Yancey, still seeking his first tournament title after two years as a pro, got his six birdies with putts from two to 45 feet but had to close the round with six consecutive pars.

Orduna & Co. Win Class A At Doane

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Crete — Omaha Central established itself as the odds-on favorite for the state Class A track title as it breezed to the Doane Invitational championship on the strength of four wins by junior Joe Orduna and solid support from a talented supporting cast.

Orduna was named the meet's outstanding performer for a brilliant all-around performance.

Highlighting his day was a wind-blown :14.2 flight of high hurdles, which puts him in a tie with Bob Hohn of Beatrice for the all-time best mark by a Nebraska prep. Hohn's mark, also wind-blown, came in the 1960 Doane meet.

Joe's :14.2 was a full second under the existing meet record, but not allowed because of the wind. His :20.2 in the lows went into the books, however, as he ran that into the wind which gusted up to 40 m.p.h.

He also took advantage of Randy Reeves' absence to win the pole vault at 12-4¾ and leaped 20-11 to win the broad jump. He completed his busy day by anchoring the winning Central mile relay unit in 3:31.2, best mark reported in the state this year.

Reeves, who has already soared 13-9¼, came up with a minor injury in an early vault and dropped from the competition rather than risk further injury on the blustery afternoon.

Other record breakers in the Class A division were Bellevue's Jim Brooks, who pushed the shot put 57-0 and Central's Bob Allen, who ran 4:33.3 in the mile.

Malcolm's Larry Frost nearly matched Orduna's efforts as he won three events in the Class B division.

He won the 100 in :10.2, the 440 in :52.2 and the broad jump at 20-1¼ as he personally piled up twice as many points as runnerup Bradshaw.

The closest competition of the day came in the Class C ranks, where Sterling's balanced effort was good for the advantage over strong Elkhorn and Wilber teams.

Weyers broke the only record in the B division. Filley's Jim Mencl bettered the high hurdles mark of :15.6 with a :15.2 effort, but it was disallowed because of the wind.

Harvard's John Keller turned in a 2:03.8 half mile and Wilber's Rob Ahlschwede tossed the discus 149-7½ to join Frost (440) in posting better marks than the winners in the big school division.

Mudecas Tourney Enters Semifinals

Elmwood and Central advanced via the shutout route in baseball action. The hosts routed Beatrice St. Joseph, 17-0, and Central blanked Avoca, 8-0. Murdock tripped Bennet, 5-2, and Douglas nipped Western, 7-6, in other action.

In softball Cortland routed Douglas, 18-4, Panama tripped Bennet, 15-5, Lewiston ousted Sterling, 13-7, and Alvo-Eagle nipped Elmwood, 4-3.

Smokey Halts Daniels' Bid For No-Hitter

By Associated Press

Bennie Daniels of Washington threatened to pitch the first no-hitter of the 1965 baseball season, Thursday, but an eighth-inning error followed by a 38-year-old pinch hitter's single halted the bid.

Daniels' near-masterpiece came in the Senators' 3-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox. He held the Sox hitless for 7 2/3 innings before Ron Hansen's grounder went through shortstop Ed Brinkman's legs.

Smokey Burgess batted next and singled into right field, sending pinch runner Al Weis to third from where he scored on J. C. Martin's single. That tied the game 1-1, but Washington won it in the ninth on successive home runs by Frank Howard and Willie Kirkland.

The Braves opened their last season in Milwaukee with a 5-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Bob Sadowski hurled a four-hitter for the Braves, who move to Atlanta next year. An enthusiastic crowd of 33,874 saw Sadowski start a three-run outburst in the third inning with an infield single.

The New York Mets edged Houston 5-4 in 10 innings for the earliest regular season victory in their four-year existence. Bobby Klaus' homer off Claude Raymond was the winning blow in the game that saw the Mets pull their third-career triple play in the second inning.

NU Linemen Gain Praise For Hustle

Coach Bob Devaney took the Huskers into the spring drills faced with finding several interior linemen, the area which was hardest hit by graduation last spring.

At various times several different linemen, either squadmen or freshmen last season, have caught the eyes of the coaches.

Singled out at one time or other for their play have been LaVerne Allers, Lynn Senkbeil and Jim Brown off last year's team although not regulars and Bob Taucher, Jim McCord and Wayne Maylen up from John Melton's freshmen eleven.

And while this doesn't prove they all have the consistency to step in and play well now, it does indicate at least the potential is there.

"We have never had freshmen who looked good early in practice and I guess this year isn't going to be any different. They always come along a little slower," he said. But he did like the way Maylen played in the scrimmage last Sunday.

"We had Maylen playing as a linebacker and he was moving all over the field making tackles," Devaney cited. "He made some mistakes, but he was making tackles from one sideline to the other and we think he has a fair future."

"Jim did a fair job of blocking and he hustled hard in the scrimmage, something he hasn't always done," the NU coach said.

Quarterback Bob Churchich, who led the Huskers to the Cotton Bowl after Fred Duda was injured, once again came in for praise from Devaney.

Tennis Courts At Woods Park To Open Today

The Woods Park tennis courts will open for play today with Robert Evans serving as supervisor, according to Robert Dula, superintendant of recreation for the City Recreation Department.

Dula said the courts would be open from noon to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

A 25-cent fee will be charged at Woods Park. This fee does not apply at the other city courts, Dula said.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. (Dis-

Buffs Brace For NU Series

. . . BAHNSEN, HERGENRADER TO START

Boulder, Colo. —Colorado, a team still searching for a winning combination, and Nebraska, a team which found one last weekend, will open the 1965 CU home baseball season with a three-game series here this weekend.

The Big Eight foes will play a pair of 7-inning games Friday, beginning at 1:30 p.m., and follow up with a 9-inning single game on Saturday in CU's Varsity Field.

Coach Tony Sharpe's Cornhuskers, who had dropped two games to tiny Morningside College of Iowa earlier last week, got off to a flying start in league play with a 4-0, 5-2 sweep of Missouri's defending champions. The double loss, after a Friday rainout snapped a 20-game Big Eight winning streak owned by the Tigers.

Colorado, meanwhile, couldn't generate any offense at Kansas as the Buffaloes failed again to take advantage of a pair of good pitching performances. CU hitters are hitting an anemic .186 while the Buffaloes have won only once in nine starts this spring.

The Buffs don't have a regular topping .300 or, for that matter, coming within 50 points of that mark. Pitcher-outfielder Adrian Mohr and catcher Don Sessions, a pair of veterans, are hitting .250 to pace the club.

Junior righthander Jim Orr, CU's top hurler a year ago with a 3-1 record, pitched well enough to win at Kansas in bowing 2-1 though allowing but four hits. So did senior southpaw Jim LaFoe, who became the first Buff to pitch two complete games in dropping a 5-3 decision.

Only Mohr, shelled for five runs while retiring only one man in the first inning of the opening game, failed to come up with a creditable mound job.

The Cornhuskers will counter with a pair of sophomore righthanders, Stan Bahnsen and Bob Stickels, and veteran lefthander Bob Hergenrader. Bahnsen muffled Missouri on two hits in gaining the shutout Saturday while Hergenrader was the starter and winner as he went five innings in the second game.

The veteran CU coach had earlier in the spring labeled the Cornhuskers and another 1964 low finisher, Kansas State, as the tow favorites to win the Big Eight this year.

"Both teams have a good nucleus of good, seasoned players," says Prentup. "Either could win it and both got away well last weekend. As for us, you can't win if you don't score. So far, we haven't been hitting often or effectively. Our team is pretty fair defensively, though, and our pitching is fairly tough. If we can just start getting our share of hits, we can win our share of games."

Astrodome Is Soundly Built

. . . SHOULD HAVE BEEN COVERED

Columbus (UPI) — Walter Behlen, a well-known Nebraska industrialist, said the new Houston, Tex., Astrodome is "structurally sound, esthetically imposing and totally impractical."

He was referring to the great plastic dome which has proved a nemesis to baseball outfielders who can't find a pop fly in the glare of its 4,596 skylights.-

"Now they are talking of covering the structure and using artificial lights for daytime activities, something that should have been done in the first place without pouring millions down the drain," Behlen said.

Behlen, chairman of the Columbus, Neb., firm specializing in wide span structural systems, claims to have promoted the idea of covered stadiums for years.

He said, however, that the idea of a translucent dome always appeared ridiculous to him.

"The intent to create an open sky atmosphere certainly hasn't been an advantage in the Houston structure," he said. "Not only are they faced with vanishing baseballs and soggy turf, but their air conditioning cost must be astronomical. What's more, the dome transmits a great deal of light at night. It presently requires far more wattage to obtain adequate night lighting than it would beneath an opaque surface."

When asked what type of enclosed stadium he envisaged, Behlen suggested a structure with heavily insulated walls and roof—"A type similar to a system we supplied for the construction of Europe's largest clear-span building in Verona, Italy, a stressed skin of aluminized steel."

Behlen said, "We call it a Dubl-Panl system. A space several feet deep divides separate and continuous roof and ceiling panels."

He said low cost insulating materials, two to four feet thick, would provide a "nearly perfect thermal barrier."

He said it would "cut to less than half the need for air conditioning in temperate climates.

He explained that the heavy insulation places a structure of this type in the same relative temperature position as an underground cave.

Behlen said the $4.5 million expenditure for Houston's air conditioning would almost pay for a steel arch that could cover the Astrodome.

He said an ideal sports palace would be an arch of at least a 1,000-foot span and a minimum height of 200 feet.

RED AND FRIEND

Pont's Pupils 'Thinking' During Spring Practice

. . . PLAYERS' MISTAKES FEW

At any rate, he saw indications in the first week of spring practice that the players were using their heads.

"We got in a new offensive and defensive concept," he said, during the spring vacation break, "and the fact that mistakes were at a minimum indicates they were thinking out there.

"On effort and desire, it was excellent from the first day through the week. They're aggressive as all getout."

There were only trivial injuries as the Hoosiers bounced one another on the sodden turf caused by rain.

Pont intends to play a two-platoon game, but he wants everybody to be able to go both ways. Offensive players will work 70 per cent on offense and 30 per cent on defense, and defensive players vice versa.

He said he may not flop the running backs as he had planned. That is, instead of a running left halfback and a flanker right halfback specializing in pass catching, he may use both as running backs. Then there would be no point in them flipping from side to side.

Links Drub Rockets, 7-2

Lincoln High ran its season's baseball record to 2-0 Thursday afternoon with a 7-2 win over the Northeast Rockets at Municipal Field.

The Links trailed 2-1 until the sixth inning when they broke the game open with six runs. Doubles by Mike Delaney, Jack Galusha and Frank Brill spelled the Rockets downfall.

Passing Stressed At OU

"We were trying to find out who could throw, who could catch it and who could run the correct cuts."

Jones found that some of his best catchers were playing defense when the passes were thrown. Thirteen were intercepted and six were run back for touchdowns. Carl McAdams scampered 24 yards with an interception for a TD. Jimmy Lynn went 48, Alan Henderson 30 and Bob Stephenson 13. Ashley Rutherford and Gordon Wheeler also romped for touchdowns with pirated passes.

"Our pass defense was pretty sharp," cracked Jones. "We just worked on eight running plays and 12 passing plays all week."

The Sooner passing figures saw John Hammond hit 10 of 23 with five interceptions, Jim Burgar four of 14 with four interceptions, Mike Ringer four of 15 with one interception, Gene Cagle three of nine with no interceptions, Wayne Nelson none of three with one interception and John Stidham none of five with two interceptions.

Lining Up Comets

One of the first players to line up with the Lincoln Comets, the Capital City entry in the Professional Football League of America, is Sam Sample, former Hastings High School and Hastings College athlete.

Sample is now coaching at Wasatch Academy in Mt. Pleasant, Utah, but has signed a contract at Geneva for the coming year. Sample wasted little time in contacting Lincoln officials after hearing of the pro plans.

However, the Comets likely are going to face a bidding war with the Omaha entry over former University of Nebraska players. The Omaha Mustangs have already signed Maynard Smidt and another NU gridder who was being eyed by the Comets has committed himself to Omaha.

A few others reportedly are not interested in the semi-pro operation and won't play for either Omaha or Lincoln.

Notre Dame Names

This spring's Notre Dame football roster includes several names that will please the Fighting Irish faithful who recall the tongue-twisting names of the past.

Vying for the quarterback job vacated by John Huarte are such names as Alex Bonvechio, Bill Zloch and Buster O'Brien. How can the latter fail at Notre Dame.

For other names, how about end Don Gmitter, linebacker Jim Yacknow, or tackle Rudy Konieczny.

Big 8 Batting King In Danger

Kansas City, Mo. — If Kansas' Steve McGreevy hopes to defend his Big Eight Conference batting championship, he's going to have to dispose of a couple of first-year men from Oklahoma State and veterans from Colorado and Oklahoma.

Last year, McGreevy had clear sailing practically all the way to the title, finishing with a .421 mark. Hurt early in the season this time around, McGreevy really didn't slide into the groove until the conference season started, picking up five safeties in his first 10 tries for a neat .500 average.

Yet this leaves him a distant fifth in the early going, but still far enough back to make it rough to repeat, particularly since the leader, Tony Stark, a junior college transfer at Oklahoma State, is not used to hitting below .400.

Currently Stark, described as a spray hitter, has been nothing but hard to put on the bench. He has collected six straight hits in his eight official times at bat for the Cowboys, a whopping .750 mark. Right behind Stark, with a .600 average, is Colorado's Pete Petrafeso, a converted first baseman. When the season started, Buff Coach Frank Prentup halfway apologized for having Petrafeso in the lineup by saying "Petrafeso will be our first baseman because we don't have any other candidates."

Three pitchers divide the honors at the top in this department—Stan Bahnsen of Nebraska and Scott Morton and Tim Van Galder of Iowa State. All three have completed their first Conference games without giving up an earned run.

Randy Matson Main Attraction At KU Relays

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Lawrence, Kan.—In a meet that is supposed to focus attenion on baton passers, Texas A & M sophomore Randy Matson can be expected to be the main attraction for the 40th annual Kansas Relays here this weekend.

And the big sophomore won't even come close to touching a baton unless one happens to be lying in his way near the shot put or discus areas.

Matson, who already has surpassed the world's best in the shot and who has topped the NCAA mark in the discus, will lead a parade of top athletes into action at the relays meet that is being dedicated to Don Pierce, Kansas sports information director, who was killed in an auto accident New Year's Eve on a Kansas turnpike.

The 19-year-old 260-pounder has thrown the shot put 67-11¼, topping the world mark of 67-10 held by Dallas Long, and the discus 201-5½ to surpass the NCAA mark by nearly 8 feet.

But Matson is only one of a galaxy of track and field stars that includes such names as Charlie Greene of Nebraska, Clarence Robinson of New Mexico, Steve Herndon of Missouri, John Camien of Emporia State, Robin Lingle of Missouri and Bernie Rivers of New Mexico.

The Husker sprint medley quartet of Greene, Crook, Jim Wendt and Lynn Headley have gained a spot in the event along with Southern Illinois, Abilene Christian, Oklahoma, Baylor and Missouri.

The full field of events get under way at 9 a.m. today after Thursday's one event, the 10,000-meter run.

Greene's first individual action will come this afternoon at 2:10 in the 100-yard preliminaries of the university division with the finals set for Saturday afternoon at 2:05.

The Husker sprint medley team will run at 2:30 today as a final event.

Matson will throw the discus at 2:30 today and the shot at 1:30 Saturday.

Other Nebraska entries in the relays are

The Husker 440-yard relay team tied an NU varsity record in winning the event at the Texas Relays with a :40.5 clocking, the best time in the Big Eight this season.

All Big Eight Conference teams have athletes entered in the meet, one of two major relays tests leading up to the conference meet at Lincoln in May. Most of the athletes competing here will continue on to the Drake Relays at Des Moines next weekend.

Eight Kansas Relays' records have already been surpassed and four others have been closely approached.

In addition to Matson in the shot and discus, other individual met marks have been toppled by Robinson in the broad jump with 25-6¼ and Herndon in the high jump at 6-9¼.

YANCEY LEADS CLASSIC

65 Tops Early Houston Field

. . . BLANCAS ONE STROKE BACK

Houston (AP) — Bert Yancey, a former West Point cadet who takes his wife's predictions seriously fired a six-under-par 31-34—65 Thursday for the first round lead in the $95,000 added Houston Golf Classic.

Yancey's par breaker included six birdies and no bogies on the 7,233-yard, par 35-36—71 Sharpstown Country Club course and it matched the score predicted by his pretty wife, Linda, as the 26-year-old Florida native teed off on the wind-swept layout.

It also gave him a one-stroke lead over a gallery favorite, Homero Blancas, the 1964 all-service champion who returned to his hometown this week to make his debut as a pro after his release from army service.

Blancas, former University of Houston star and a 1963 national amateur quarterfinalist, was five under par through 15 holes but closed with three pars for a 33-33—66.

Tied at 67 were Bobby Nichols, last year's PGA champion, Buddy Weaver, a young Texas pro, and Ken Still, a pro tour veteran of four years from Tacoma, Wash.

A seven-way tie at 68 included Mike Souchak, the defending champion, and Bruce Devlin, the Australian who shot a course record 63 in a Wednesday practice round that was part of a $2,500 pro-am event.

Yancey, playing out of Philadelphia, thought his round was so good it was a shame so few people saw it.

"It was about as perfect a round as I ever had but the gallery included only six people—my wife, mother-in-law, and four guys following Jerry Pittman," Yancey said. "I drove perfectly and putted real well."

Pittman, playing in the same threesome had a 70.

Yancey, still seeking his first tournament title after two years as a pro, got his six birdies with putts from two to 45 feet but had to close the round with six consecutive pars.

Orduna & Co. Win Class A At Doane

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Crete — Omaha Central established itself as the odds-on favorite for the state Class A track title as it breezed to the Doane Invitational championship on the strength of four wins by junior Joe Orduna and solid support from a talented supporting cast.

Orduna was named the meet's outstanding performer for a brilliant all-around performance.

Highlighting his day was a wind-blown :14.2 flight of high hurdles, which puts him in a tie with Bob Hohn of Beatrice for the all-time best mark by a Nebraska prep. Hohn's mark, also wind-blown, came in the 1960 Doane meet.

Joe's :14.2 was a full second under the existing meet record, but not allowed because of the wind. His :20.2 in the lows went into the books, however, as he ran that into the wind which gusted up to 40 m.p.h.

He also took advantage of Randy Reeves' absence to win the pole vault at 12-4¾ and leaped 20-11 to win the broad jump. He completed his busy day by anchoring the winning Central mile relay unit in 3:31.2, best mark reported in the state this year.

Reeves, who has already soared 13-9¼, came up with a minor injury in an early vault and dropped from the competition rather than risk further injury on the blustery afternoon.

Other record breakers in the Class A division were Bellevue's Jim Brooks, who pushed the shot put 57-0 and Central's Bob Allen, who ran 4:33.3 in the mile.

He won the 100 in :10.2, the 440 in :52.2 and the broad jump at 20-1¼ as he personally piled up twice as many points as runnerup Bradshaw.

The closest competition of the day came in the Class C ranks, where Sterling's balanced effort was good for the advantage over strong Elkhorn and Wilber teams.

Weyers broke the only record in the B division. Filley's Jim Mencl bettered the high hurdles mark of :15.6 with a :15.2 effort, but it was disallowed because of the wind.

Harvard's John Keller turned in a 2:03.8 half mile and Wilber's Rob Ahlschwede tossed the discus 149-7½ to join Frost (440) in posting better marks than the winners in the big school division.

Mudecas Tourney Enters Semifinals

Elmwood—Elmwood, Murdock, Central and Douglas have advanced to the baseball semifinals and Cortland, Panama, Lewiston and Alvo-Eagle to the softball semifinals in Mudecas tournament play.

Elmwood and Central advanced via the shutout route in baseball action. The hosts routed Beatrice St. Joseph, 17-0, and Central blanked Avoca, 8-0. Murdock tripped Bennet, 5-2, and Douglas nipped Western, 7-6, in other action.

Smokey Halts Daniels' Bid For No-Hitter

By Associated Press

Bennie Daniels of Washington threatened to pitch the first no-hitter of the 1965 baseball season, Thursday, but an eighth-inning error followed by a 38-year-old pinch hitter's single halted the bid.

Daniels' near-masterpiece came in the Senators' 3-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox. He held the Sox hitless for 7 2/3 innings before Ron Hansen's grounder went through shortstop Ed Brinkman's legs.

Smokey Burgess batted next and singled into right field, sending pinch runner Al Weis to third from where he scored on J. C. Martin's single. That tied the game 1-1, but Washington won it in the ninth on successive home runs by Frank Howard and Willie Kirkland.

The Braves opened their last season in Milwaukee with a 5-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Bob Sadowski hurled a four-hitter for the Braves, who move to Atlanta next year. An enthusiastic crowd of 33,874 saw Sadowski start a three-run outburst in the third inning with an infield single.

The New York Mets edged Houston 5-4 in 10 innings for the earliest regular season victory in their four-year existence. Bobby Klaus' homer off Claude Raymond was the winning blow in the game that saw the Mets pull their third-career triple play in the second inning.

NU Linemen Gain Praise For Hustle

Coach Bob Devaney took the Huskers into the spring drills faced with finding several interior linemen, the area which was hardest hit by graduation last spring.

At various times several different linemen, either squadmen or freshmen last season, have caught the eyes of the coaches.

Singled out at one time or other for their play have been LaVerne Allers, Lynn Senkbeil and Jim Brown off last year's team although not regulars and Bob Taucher, Jim McCord and Wayne Maylen up from John Melton's freshmen eleven.

"We have never had freshmen who looked good early in practice and I guess this year isn't going to be any different. They always come along a little slower," he said. But he did like the way Maylen played in the scrimmage last Sunday.

"We had Maylen playing as a linebacker and he was moving all over the field making tackles," Devaney cited. "He made some mistakes, but he was making tackles from one sideline to the other and we think he has a fair future."

"Jim did a fair job of blocking and he hustled hard in the scrimmage, something he hasn't always done," the NU coach said.

Tennis Courts At Woods Park To Open Today

The Woods Park tennis courts will open for play today with Robert Evans serving as supervisor, according to Robert Dula, superintendant of recreation for the City Recreation Department.

Dula said the courts would be open from noon to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

A 25-cent fee will be charged at Woods Park. This fee does not apply at the other city courts, Dula said

Bold Lad In Field Of 11

. . . AT WOOD MEMORIAL

New York (AP)—Hirsh Jacobs, who trained the first three horses across the finish line in last Wednesday's Distaff Handicap, will try Saturday to repeat the rare trick in the $75,000-added Wood Memorial at Aqueduct. But this time his task won't be as easy. Bold Lad will be in the probable field of 11.

The veteran trainer said Thursday he'll saddle Flag Raiser, Isle of Greece and Turn to Reason in the 1⅛-mile final Eastern prep for the May 1 running of the Kentucky Derby. Jacobs tried with all three in the Gotham two weeks ago but only Flag Raiser got into the money with a front-running victory.

Bold Lad, the 1964 2-year-old champion seeking his first stakes triumph of the year after romping over older horses in his debut two weeks ago, also will have assistance if needed.

Trainer Bill Winfrey will send out Dapper Dan as a running mate for the brilliant son of Bold Ruler. Dapper Dan was a fast closing second back of Flag Raiser in the Gotham after running into a blind switch near the three-furlong pole.

Bold Lad, who'll be ridden by Manuel Ycaza in place of the suspended Braulio Baeza, completed his training Thursday morning by going five furlongs handily in 59 3-5 seconds and easing up six furlongs in 1:12 2-5. Dapper Dan wound up his works Wednesday with five furlongs in 1:01, handily, and six furlongs in 1:13.

Jacobs has named Bob Ussery to ride Flag Raiser with Ismael Valenzuela up on Isle of Greece, runner-up to Tom Rolfe in last Saturday's Chesapeake Stakes. No rider has been selected for Turn to Reason.

The Wood is expected to attract a field of 11, making it worth $92,150 with $59,897.50 going to the winner. In addition to the entries trained by Jacobs and Winfrey, the other Kentucky Derby eligibles slated to start are Louisiana Derby winner Dapper Delegate and Hail to All, a consistent Florida performer.

Johnny Sellers, who gained fame aboard Carry Back, will be astride Hail to All with Johnny Heckman up on Dapper Delegate.

Boston Wins Playoff From 76ers, 110-109

Boston (AP)— Boston, stunned by repeated Philadelphia rallies, needed 37 points from Sam Jones and great teamwork in the dying moments for a 110-109 National Basketball Association playoff victory over the 76ers Thursday night. The triumph gave the Celtics their ninth straight Eastern Division crown.

The incredible contest took a turn in Philadelphia's favor with five seconds remaining. Boston ran out the 24-second time and stepped aside so that Wilt Chamberlain could score uncontested his 30th point on a dunker.

It let Philadelphia put the ball in play in Boston territory. But John Havlicek intercepted the throw-in, fed Sam Jones and the two went sprinting down the court when the buzzer sounded.

A forgotten hero among the 76ers stars was reserve forward Dave Gambee who scored 25 points in a relief role, 13 of them from the free throw line.

It was a repeat starring role for Sam Jones, who three years ago arched a shot over Chamberlain's fingertips to beat the ex-Philadelphia Warriors 109-107 with two seconds left.

Venturi Seeks Aid At Mayo Clinic

Rochester, Minn. (AP)—Golfer Ken Venturi began a series of tests at the Mayo Clinic Thursday as doctors sought to control a numbness in his hands apparently caused by poor blood circulation.

Venturi, who arrived by plane from San Francisco Wednesday, said he may plan to be ready to play in the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas April 29.

He described the ailment as a numbness that began in his fingers and has now spread to his hands.

Miami Fight Pits Otto Brown, Diaz

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — Matchmaker Chris Dundee said Thursday he has signed Argentine heavyweight Rudolfo Diaz for a 10-round bout April 21 with Otto Brown of Miami.

Brown has suffered two defeats in 32 bouts.

Your Mercury dealer invites you to COMPARE
the 9.8 hp Merc 110 fishing motor
with competitors' weed-catchers

The Merc 110, and the 3.9, 6 and 20 hp fishing Mercs, all have a smooth, slanted one-piece lower unit housing that glides up and over submerged obstacles. There's no protruding gearcase to damage by impact, or catch weeds that cause overheated engines or fouled props.

Merc's exclusive Jet-Prop exhaust improves engine breathing, increases thrust and reduces underwater drag. Fumes and noise are buried far behind the boat. Mercs have no shear pins to fail . . . a live-rubber safety clutch protects the prop on impact. All Mercurys have full gearshift . . . forward, neutral, reverse.

Merc's tilted powerhead and internal bleed system eliminates misfiring and spark plug fouling. Fixed-jet carburetors need no adjustment, let you go further, faster, on less fuel.

Buffs Brace For NU Series

. . . BAHNSEN, HERGENRADER TO START

Boulder, Colo. —Colorado, a team still searching for a winning combination, and Nebraska, a team which found one last weekend, will open the 1965 CU home baseball season with a three-game series here this weekend.

The Big Eight foes will play a pair of 7-inning games Friday, beginning at 1:30 p.m., and follow up with a 9-inning single game on Saturday in CU's Varsity Field.

Coach Tony Sharpe's Cornhuskers, who had dropped two games to tiny Morningside College of Iowa earlier last week, got off to a flying start in league play with a 4-0, 5-2 sweep of Missouri's defending champions. The double loss, after a Friday rainout snapped a 20-game Big Eight winning streak owned by the Tigers.

Colorado, meanwhile, couldn't generate any offense at Kansas as the Buffaloes failed again to take advantage of a pair of good pitching performances. CU hitters are hitting an anemic .186 while the Buffaloes have won only once in nine starts this spring.

The Buffs don't have a regular topping .300 or, for that matter, coming within 50 points of that mark. Pitcher-outfielder Adrian Mohr and catcher Don Sessions, a pair of veterans, are hitting .250 to pace the club.

Junior righthander Jim Orr, CU's top hurler a year ago with a 3-1 record, pitched well enough to win at Kansas in bowing 2-1 though allowing but four hits. So did senior southpaw Jim LaFoe, who became the first Buff to pitch two complete games in dropping a 5-3 decision.

Only Mohr, shelled for five runs while retiring only one man in the first inning of the opening game, failed to come up with a creditable mound job.

The Cornhuskers will counter with a pair of sophomore righthanders, Stan Bahnsen and Bob Stickels, and veteran lefthander Bob Hergenrader. Bahnsen muffled Missouri on two hits in gaining the shutout Saturday while Hergenrader was the starter and winner as he went five innings in the second game.

The veteran CU coach had earlier in the spring labeled the Cornhuskers and another 1964 low finisher, Kansas State, as the tow favorites to win the Big Eight this year.

"Both teams have a good nucleus of good, seasoned players," says Prentup. "Either could win it and both got away well last weekend. As for us, you can't win if you don't score. So far, we haven't been hitting often or effectively. Our team is pretty fair defensively, though, and our pitching is fairly tough. If we can just start getting our share of hits, we can win our share of games."

Astrodome Is Soundly Built

. . . SHOULD HAVE BEEN COVERED

Columbus (UPI) — Walter Behlen, a well-known Nebraska industrialist, said the new Houston, Tex., Astrodome is "structurally sound, esthetically imposing and totally impractical."

He was referring to the great plastic dome which has proved a nemesis to baseball outfielders who can't find a pop fly in the glare of its 4,596 skylights.-

"Now they are talking of covering the structure and using artificial lights for daytime activities, something that should have been done in the first place without pouring millions down the drain," Behlen said.

Behlen, chairman of the Columbus, Neb., firm specializing in wide span structural systems, claims to have promoted the idea of covered stadiums for years.

He said, however, that the idea of a translucent dome always appeared ridiculous to him.

"The intent to create an open sky atmosphere certainly hasn't been an advantage in the Houston structure," he said. "Not only are they faced with vanishing baseballs and soggy turf, but their air conditioning cost must be astronomical. What's more, the dome transmits a great deal of light at night. It presently requires far more wattage to obtain adequate night lighting than it would beneath an opaque surface."

When asked what type of enclosed stadium he envisaged, Behlen suggested a structure with heavily insulated walls and roof—"A type similar to a system we supplied for the construction of Europe's largest clear-span building in Verona, Italy, a stressed skin of aluminized steel."

Behlen said, "We call it a Dubl-Panl system. A space several feet deep divides separate and continuous roof and ceiling panels."

He said low cost insulating materials, two to four feet thick, would provide a "nearly perfect thermal barrier."

He said it would "cut to less than half the need for air conditioning in temperate climates.

He explained that the heavy insulation places a structure of this type in the same relative temperature position as an underground cave.

Behlen said the $4.5 million expenditure for Houston's air conditioning would almost pay for a steel arch that could cover the Astrodome.

He said an ideal sports palace would be an arch of at least a 1,000-foot span and a minimum height of 200 feet.

Italy's Davis Cup Captain Chosen

Rome (AP)—Nicola Pietrangeli and Sergio Tacchini were named Thursday to lead Italy's Davis Cup tennis team.

The Italian Tennis Federation also selected Giordano Mailoi and Giorgino Bologna for the team, with Vasco Valerio as non-playing captain.

RED AND FRIEND

. . . PLAYERS' MISTAKES FEW

At any rate, he saw indications in the first week of spring practice that the players were using their heads.

"We got in a new offensive and defensive concept," he said, during the spring vacation break, "and the fact that mistakes were at a minimum indicates they were thinking out there.

"On effort and desire, it was excellent from the first day through the week. They're aggressive as all getout."

There were only trivial injuries as the Hoosiers bounced one another on the sodden turf caused by rain.

Pont intends to play a two-platoon game, but he wants everybody to be able to go both ways. Offensive players will work 70 per cent on offense and 30 per cent on defense, and defensive players vice versa.

He said he may not flop the running backs as he had planned. That is, instead of a running left halfback and a flanker right halfback specializing in pass catching, he may use both as running backs. Then there would be no point in them fipping from side to side.

Links Drub Rockets, 7-2

Lincoln High ran its season's baseball record to 2-0 Thursday afternoon with a 7-2 win over the Northeast Rockets at Municipal Field.

The Links trailed 2-1 until the sixth inning when they broke the game open with six runs. Doubles by Mike Delaney, Jack Galusha and Frank Brill spelled the Rockets downfall.

Markets Closed On Good Friday

Major U.S. financial and commodity markets will be closed in observance of Good Friday.

Stock Market Price Pattern Is Scrambled

As the upward drive—which has carried averages to historic heights for the past three days—ran out of gas, the pace of trading slowed.

Since the market rose for six previous sessions, the mildness of the profit taking today came as somewhat of a surprise. In typical Wall Street style, the mild selling pressure was exerted prior to the long Easter weekend. Exchanges will be closed Good Friday.

The selling gathered no momentum, however. It began to ease off early in the afternoon. As the session neared its end there was some brick buying at the lower prices, and the final tone showed scattered strength.

The underlying optimism was reflected by the fact that eight of the 15 most active stocks were gainers while six declined and American Telephone was unchanged.

The most active stock was Colorado Fuel & Iron. It rose ¾ to 15¼ on 116,200 shares.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 1.97 million shares compared with 2.35 million shares Wednesday.

Grain Mart Ends Generally Higher

Chicago (AP) — Light but fairly steady commercial buying imparted firmness to the grain futures market Thursday and prices closed generally a little higher on the Board of Trade.

After hitting season highs for the third time this week on minor fractional advances, oats came under scattered profit cashing in late transactions and showed the only declines, all very small.

At the close, soybeans were ¼-1½ cents a bushel higher, May $3.03⅛-½; wheat ¼-⅞ higher, May $1.50⅜-¼; corn unchanged to ¼ higher, May $1.33-33⅛; oats ¼ lower to ⅛ higher, May 73½-⅝ cents; rye ⅜-⅝ higher, May $1.19½.

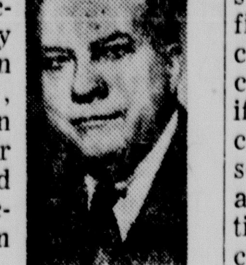
EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Today's Affluence Regarded As Double-Edged Sword

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

In simpler times, the fruits of success were deemed sweet. Nowadays affluence is a double-edged sword, with high tax liabilities in the offing. A letter from an Indiana reader recalls an episode which occurred in my presence in Phoenix, Ariz., between a trust officer of a bank and a wealthy octogenarian customer.



Rukeyser

The elderly gentleman said that he had asked his attorney and his accountant to compute what his death duties would be if he should go to his maker at that time. When he got the figures, he was flabbergasted and quipped: "I can't afford to die."

My Indiana correspondent writes: "At present inflated prices, my estate would run about $400,000. I have a wife and no other dependents. My tax advisers have advised me to give some of my stock, which has increased greatly in value, to charity by way of trust. I have $100,000 in joint and survival annuities. How would this be taxed? We have stock in the names of my wife and myself. Should I have more in her name? Is the charity trust advisable? Why should servicing a trust be so expensive? Would the amount given away be deductible? We are 68."

When asked a similar question by a widow who was considering gifts in order to minimize the liability of her estate for inheritance taxes, Bernard M. Baruch cautioned against too much irreversible giving away of property on the ground that a rising cost of living might make the lady's future budget larger than she estimates. Baruch advised her to stress flexibility for her old age rather than try to reduce taxes of the heirs.

Can Be Profitable

Within the upper limits of charitable contributions in a single year, the taxpayer can deduct gifts in kind, such as stock, at current market prices and yet not subject himself to a capital gains tax. Thus under some conditions, giving can be profitable in terms of current tax savings.

Generalization is futile, since a computation must be made based on the specific facts involved. The reader's tax adviser should make such an analysis. In estimating future money needs of himself and his spouse in later years, the reader should give himself leeway through retaining a surplus to offset any future inflation.

The matter of gifts to the wife is a matter of conjecture. Both are the same age, and, though actuarially women outlive men by six years, there is no assurance that this couple will follow the statistical pattern. The annuity is taxed in accordance with a complicated mathematical formula. In general, the portion which is a return of principal is tax free.

The reader can get the specific figures by writing to the home office of the insurance company which wrote the contract. Such data must be based on the assumption that death occurs now, while existing tax rates and regulations are in effect.

The reader asks why trust services are so expensive. The premise is wrong. In most states, maximum rates are fixed by law. Usually the charge is modest, and is far cheaper than retaining a qualified financial secretary. The cost of producing fiduciary service for a trust includes salaries, rent, light, heat, stationery, insurance and miscellaneous expenses.

Q.-A professional man, a foreigner, in Fargo, North Dakota expects to spend three more years in this country. He has $4,000 in the bank at 4% interest and wants to know how to earn a higher rate.

A.-For a man in your circumstances it is well to carry reserves, as you do, in liquid form. You can get a fraction more than 4% in New York mutual savings banks and in federally insured savings and loan associations. However, there is advantage in having at least part of your savings readily accessible in a local institution.

If you feel that you could spare $1,500 out of your cash deposits, you could consider investing them in a seasoned mutual fund. These dollar securities and deposits don't lose their value if you leave the country in three years.

Q.-A medical student in San Francisco, with $25,000 of whole life insurance, is being pressured by his insurance agent to buy more. He says that he and his wife would prefer to put funds elsewhere.

A.-As a student, you must be stretching to pay premiums on your present policy. Perhaps your wife is contributing something and possibly you have income from other sources. Your potential future earning power is large, but you don't have to make commitments today on future expectations. Life insurance is primarily intended to protect dependents from premature demise of the principal family earner. It is good to start early the habit of putting funds regularly on a periodical schedule in the same prime securities on a "dollar averaging" basis. You might start with mutual funds.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning ceive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

Boston Wins Playoff From 76ers, 110-109

Boston (AP)—Boston, stunned by repeated Philadelphia rallies, needed 37 points from Sam Jones and great teamwork in the dying moments for a 110-109 National Basketball Association playoff victory over the 76ers Thursday night. The triumph gave the Celtics their ninth straight Eastern Division crown.

The incredible contest took a turn in Philadelphia's favor with five seconds remaining. Boston ran out the 24-second time and stepped aside so that Wilt Chamberlain could score uncontested his 30th point on a dunker.

But when the Celtics tried to throw the ball in from out of bounds the ball caromed back out of bounds off a wire supporting the basket.

It let Philadelphia put the ball in play in Boston territory. But John Havlicek intercepted the throw-in, fed Sam Jones and the two went sprinting down the court when the buzzer sounded.

Havlicek ended with 26 points.

A forgotten hero among the 76ers stars was reserve forward Dave Gambee who scored 25 points in a relief role, 13 of them from the free throw line.

It was a repeat starring role for Sam Jones, who three years ago arched a shot over Chamberlain's fingertips to beat the ex-Philadelphia Warriors 109-107 with two seconds left.

The best-of-seven series opens here Sunday afternoon and Monday night.

COMPARE
the 9.8 hp Merc 110 fishing motor
with competitors' weed-catchers

The Merc 110, and the 3.9, 6 and 20 hp fishing Mercs, all have a smooth, slanted one-piece lower unit housing that glides up and over submerged obstacles. There's no protruding gearcase to damage by impact, or catch weeds that cause overheated engines or fouled props.

Merc's exclusive Jet-Prop exhaust improves engine breathing, increases thrust and reduces underwater drag. Fumes and noise are buried far behind the boat. Mercs have no shear pins to fail . . . a live-rubber safety clutch protects the prop on impact. All Mercurys have full gearshift . . . forward, neutral, reverse.

Merc's tilted powerhead and internal bleed system eliminates misfiring and spark plug fouling. Fixed-jet carburetors need no adjustment, let you go further, faster, on less fuel.

Your Mercury dealer can show you all the reasons why you get more RUN (and maybe more fish) for your money with Mercury . . . 3.9, 6, 9.8, 20, 35, 50, 65, 90 and 100 hp.

Nixon Sees Growing Skepticism Of Big Government's Usefulness

New York (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Thursday night Americans are developing "a healthy skepticism about the usefulness of big government in modern society."

In a speech to the first public affairs conference of the National Institutional Conference Board, Nixon said, "Scholars are discovering, sometimes to their surprise and consternation, that big government has rolled up an impressive record of failure."

As examples, he listed the agriculture program, and the federal urban renewal program, which he said has "clumsily destroyed more low-cost housing than it created" while private enterprise "quietly dwarfed its meager accomplishments."

'Tacit Admission'

Nixon said that beneath what he called the "flamboyant 'war on poverty,'" lies the "tacit admission that 30 years of expensive federal effort to eliminate dependency has, if anything, increased and institutionalized it."

He cited two trends which he said run counter to "bigger government, higher taxes and an ever-growing federal role in the life of America."

One, he asserted, is a "new realism" about federal programs. He described the other as "the almost sudden rediscovery of a forgotten alternative to government action on public problems."

'People's Sector'

This alternative Nixon labeled the "people's sector." It includes hospitals, garden clubs, universities, lodges, private welfare agencies, churches, trade associations, national health organizations, labor unions, foundations, research institutes and private schools, he said.

Nixon said this area is "reemerging as a powerful potential force in American affairs.

He said the country's best hope for the future is "systematic upgrading of the performance of the independent people's sector."

Pairs' Private Poverty War Gets Pinched

New York (UPI) — The Queens District attorney Thursday filed fraud charges against two Negroes who collected up to $200 a day in donations for the Alabama civil rights drive. He said they used the money for their own personal "war on poverty."

He said the pair collected more than $6,000 and, instead of sending the money to Alabama, diverted it to their own personal bank accounts.

O'Conner said two detectives arrested the pair after he was called by a shopowner who said there was "something phony" about the two alleged rights workers.

O'Conner said the detectives confiscated two bank accounts and an adding machine. Entries in the bankbooks indicated that they collected as much as $200 a day soliciting in Queens, Manhattan, Nassau and Westchester.

Final Contracts For Scottsbluff Hospital Okayed

The federal government has given final approval to contracts for a $3.44 million hospital and nurses' training facility at Scottsbluff, a state health department official said Thursday.

Pangborn said about $1,360,000 in federal Hill-Burton hospital construction funds will be available for the project.

Officials report the state still needs cells for 5,000.

Two Brothers Smothered By Dirt Cave-In

Milpitas, Calif. (AP) — Two young brothers suffocated Wednesday night as they were covered by falling earth in a small cave.

They were Bryan Burton, 9, and Steven, 8.

A third brother, Gordon Burton, 12, was rescued Thursday by firemen and was reported in good condition at a San Jose Hospital.

The boys were reported missing at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday by their father, Arthur Burton.

Gordon said that as they started out, he heard a rumble and the dirt caved in.

Gordon, buried up to his chest, managed to free his arms. He called loudly through the night, but not until 8:30 a.m. Thursday did anyone hear him.

Rescuers freed Gordon and discovered the other boys were dead.

The party will leave SAC Friday for Fort Worth, Tex., and a visit to the General Dynamics Co. plant there.

Malawi Girls Banned From Artificial Beauty

The ban came from Mrs. Margaret Mlanga, chairman of the Malawi League of Women—often dubbed the "Amazon army" — who declared there is no need for them to copy other races.

Black Market Books Add Bad

The education ministry, noting that producers of black market copies of textbooks are notoriously illiterate and careless with figures, said the racket has become nationwide and the government has given police special powers to wipe it out.

Communist-Aide Congolese Rebel Head Is Defector

Leopoldville, The Congo (AP) A newspaper reported that Egide Bocheley-Davidson, a leader of the Communist-backed rebellion in the northeast, has defected and is now in Leopoldville.

The Courrier d'Afrique attributed the report to "a source close to Premier Moise Tshombe." Bocheley-Davidson is an associate of Christophe Gbenye, self-styled "president of the People's Republic of the Congo."

Bocheley maintained an administrative base for the rebellion in Brazzaville, across the Congo River in the former French Congo. Bocheley has been reported backed by the Russians, while Gbenye is supposed to enjoy the support of the Communist Chinese.

Pioneer French Aviator Is Dead

Paris (AP)—Roger Sommer, 88, a pioneer French aviator, died Thursday.

Sommer beat the record of Wilbur Wright for duration of a flight when he stayed in the air 2 hours, 27 minutes and 15 seconds in 1909. He also claimed to have been the first flier to carry a passenger when he took his son, Francois, aloft in 1909.

He dropped aerial bombs in the Balkan War in 1911.

Guiana Emergency End Up To Burnham

Georgetown, British Guiana (AP)—Power to create and rescind emergency measures in British Guiana has been restored to the elected government by an order in council approved by Queen Elizabeth II.

It was noted, however, that there has been no official end to the emergency declared when the British governor took over June 13, 1964, at the height of communal disorders. Prime Minister Forbes Burnham now can extend or end the emergency.

INDIANS AGREE TO PAKISTANI BORDER CEASE-FIRE REQUEST

An announcement by Foreign Minister Swaran Singh touched off an uproar in parliament because Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said three days ago there would be no peace talks until Pakistan vacated two border posts which India claims.

The Pakistani request for a ceasefire and talks was conveyed to the Indian envoy in Karachi Thursday and the Indian government's acceptance was conveyed after a cabinet meeting.

Renewed fighting along the frontier between Indian and Pakistani troops broke out six days ago at the Indian posts of Kanjoarkot and Ding.

The area has been the scene of border skirmishes since 1947 when the subcontinent was partitioned.

India claimed 34 Pakistani soldiers were killed and four others captured in an engagement Monday after eight Pakistani armored cars swept across the frontier.

Pakistan denied the Indian claim and said four Indians were killed and 35 captured.

Singh told parliament there has been "a comparative lull over the past 60 hours except for some desultory firing."

It was the worst highway accident in Idaho history.

Stock Market Price Pattern Is Scrambled

New York (AP)—A prolonged stock market advance paused for breath Thursday and the final price pattern was scrambled.

As the upward drive—which has carried averages to historic heights for the past three days—ran out of gas, the pace of trading slowed.

Volume sank to 5.87 million shares from 6.56 million Wednesday.

Since the market rose for six previous sessions, the mildness of the profit taking today came as somewhat of a surprise. In typical Wall Street style, the mild selling pressure was exerted prior to the long Easter weekend. Exchanges will be closed Good Friday.

The selling gathered no momentum, however. It began to ease off early in the afternoon. As the session neared its end there was some brick buying at the lower prices, and the final tone showed scattered strength.

Of 1,364 issues traded, 570 advanced and 516 declined. New highs for the year totaled 118 and new lows 20.

The underlying optimism was reflected by the fact that eight of the 15 most active stocks were gainers while six declined and American Telephone was unchanged.

The most active stock was Colorado Fuel & Iron. It rose ¾ to 15¼ on 116,200 shares.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 1.97 million shares compared with 2.35 million shares Wednesday.

Grain Mart Ends Generally Higher

Chicago (AP) — Light but fairly steady commercial buying imparted firmness to the grain futures market Thursday and prices closed generally a little higher on the Board of Trade.

After hitting season highs for the third time this week on minor fractional advances, oats came under scattered profit cashing in late transactions and showed the only declines, all very small.

At the close, soybeans were ¼-1½ cents a bushel higher, May $3.03⅛-½; wheat ¼-⅞ higher, May $1.50⅝-¼; corn unchanged to ¼ higher, May $1.33-33⅛; oats ¼ lower to ⅛ higher, May 73½-⅝ cents; rye ⅜-⅝ higher, May $1.19½.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Today's Affluence Regarded As Double-Edged Sword

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

In simpler times, the fruits of success were deemed sweet. Nowadays affluence is a double-edged sword, with high tax liabilities in the offing. A letter from an Indiana reader recalls an episode which occurred in my presence in Phoenix, Ariz., between a trust officer of a bank and a wealthy octogenarian customer.

Rukeyser

The elderly gentleman said that he had asked his attorney and his accountant to compute what his death duties would be if he should go to his maker at that time. When he got the figures, he was flabbergasted and quipped: "I can't afford to die."

My Indiana correspondent writes: "At present inflated prices, my estate would run about $400,000. I have a wife and no other dependents. My tax advisers have advised me to give some of my stock, which has increased greatly in value, to charity by way of trust. I have $100,000 in joint and survival annuities. How would this be taxed? We have stock in the names of my wife and myself. Should I have more in her name? Is the charity trust advisable? Why should servicing a trust be so expensive? Would the amount given away be deductible? We are 68."

When asked a similar question by a widow who was considering gifts in order to minimize the liability of her estate for inheritance taxes, Bernard M. Baruch cautioned against too much irreversible giving away of property on the ground that a rising cost of living might make the lady's future budget larger than she estimates. Baruch advised her to stress flexibility for her old age rather than try to reduce taxes of the heirs.

Can Be Profitable

Within the upper limits of charitable contributions in a single year, the taxpayer can deduct gifts in kind, such as stock, at current market prices and yet not subject himself to a capital gains tax. Thus under some conditions, giving can be profitable in terms of current tax savings.

Generalization is futile, since a computation must be made based on the specific facts involved. The reader's tax adviser should make such an analysis. In estimating future money needs of himself and his spouse in later years, the reader should give himself leeway through retaining a surplus to offset any future inflation.

The matter of gifts to the wife is a matter of conjecture. Both are the same age, and, though actuarially women outlive men by six years, there is no assurance that this couple will follow the statistical pattern. The annuity is taxed in accordance with a complicated mathematical formula. In general, the portion which is a return of principal is tax free.

The reader can get the specific figures by writing to the home office of the insurance company which wrote the contract. Such data must be based on the assumption that death occurs now, while existing tax rates and regulations are in effect.

The reader asks why trust services are so expensive. The premise is wrong. In most states, maximum rates are fixed by law. Usually the charge is modest, and is far cheaper than retaining a qualified financial secretary. The cost of producing fiduciary service for a trust includes salaries, rent, light, heat, stationery, insurance and miscellaneous expenses.

Q.-A professional man, a foreigner, in Fargo, North Dakota expects to spend three more years in this country. He has $4,000 in the bank at 4% interest and wants to know how to earn a higher rate.

A.-For a man in your circumstances it is well to carry reserves, as you do, in liquid form. You can get a fraction more than 4% in New York mutual savings banks and in federally insured savings and loan associations. However, there is advantage in having at least part of your savings readily accessible in a local institution.

If you feel that you could spare $1,500 out of your cash deposits, you could consider investing them in a seasoned mutual fund. These dollar securities and deposits don't lose their value if you leave the country in three years.

Q.-A medical student in San Francisco, with $25,000 of whole life insurance, is being pressured by his insurance agent to buy more. He says that he and his wife would prefer to put funds elsewhere.

A.-As a student, you must be stretching to pay premiums on your present policy. Perhaps your wife is contributing something and possibly you have income from other sources. Your potential future earning power is large, but you don't have to make commitments today on future expectations. Life insurance is primarily intended to protect dependents from premature demise of the principal family earner. It is good to start early the habit of putting funds regularly on a periodical schedule in the same prime securities on a "dollar averaging" basis. You might start with mutual funds.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning celve inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

Bulgaria Foils Try At Coup

Sofia, Bulgaria (UPI) — Security police have frustrated a plot by pro-Peking Bulgarian Communists in high places to overthrow the government of Premier Todor Zhivkov, informed sources said Thursday.

It was the first report of a coup attempt by diehard Stalinists in the East European countries since the ideological dispute between the Communist Parties of the Soviet Union and China erupted openly in 1961.

The sources said the plot was disclosed April 7 when Ivan Todorov-Gorunya, 48, a member of the ruling central committee of the Bulgarian Communist Party, was found shot to death in his apartment. The sources said he was an apparent suicide.

Disappeared

That same day, the sources said, Gen. Tsvetko Anev, commandant of the Sofia military district, vanished from his offices. The sources said Anev went into hiding but was tracked down and placed under arrest.

The sources said Anev and Todorov-Gorunya were reported in contact with other conspirators holding high government, party and military posts.

The sources said that the plotters were discovered by Bulgarian security police agents before they could make any real attempt to seize power. The conspiracy was said to involve a number of high officials but there was no report whether any arrests were made.

Two Hats

The sources emphasized that a clandestine organization hostile to Zhivkov is in the making. Zhivkov is both premier and head of the Communist Party and he has backed Moscow in the Sino-Soviet dispute.

In Vienna, Western European experts said existence of a pro-Peking faction within the Communist Party had been known for some time but minimized it by calling it a splinter group.

Zhivkov purged many Stalinists from the Communist Party leadership and incurred their enmity. It was believed that some could have been involved in the reported coup attempt.

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha-Douglas County Medical Society has voted to censure Rep. Glenn Cunningham for voting for the medicare bill when it passed in the House and was sent to the Senate.

The Omaha medical group said Rep. Cunningham had "consistently said he opposed the bill up until the time of the actual vote."

For the purpose of this Code, the height shall be taken as the vertical distance from the "Grade" to the highest point of a flat roof, or to the deck line of a mansard roof, or to the average height of the highest gable of a peak or hipped roof. Church spires, chimneys, towers, flag poles, scenery lofts and bulkheads of pent houses used solely to enclose stairways, tanks, elevator machinery or ventilating apparatus, and parapet walls not over four feet high need not be considered in determining this point. No building shall hereafter be erected which exceeds the limits of height fixed in this section.

(b) Floor areas. The maximum floor area of buildings of various types of construction shall not exceed the limits fixed on the preceding tabulation in this section; provided that all building types, except fire resistive construction, shall not be limited in area if they are divided by fire walls into sections none of which exceeds these limiting areas. No building except fire resistive construction shall hereafter be extended on any side so as to exceed the limits of undivided area fixed in this section.

Each fire separation wall shall be not less than one-hour fire resistive rating with any openings therein protected not less than by one-hour rated doors. In the event said 'refuge' separation wall shall be the fire separation wall required because of exceeding area limitations, the separation wall shall be not less than two-hour fire resistive rating with any openings therein protected by not less than one and one-half hour rated doors. Such doors shall be self-closing or may be so installed that they will close automatically or may be released manually to self-closing action. Such doors need not swing with exit travel.

For openings in masonry bearing walls not exceeding four (4) feet width, an angle or similar member supported by masonary and not fire-proofed on the under side may be used.

(3) Where every part of the structural steel framework of the roof of a Group A, B or C building is not less than twenty-five (25) feet above any floor or balcony, fireproofing of all members of the roof construction maybe omitted.

(4) Where every part of the structural steel framework of the roof of a Group A, B, or C building is more than eighteen (18 feet and less than twenty-five (25) feet above any floor or balcony the roof construction shall be protected by a suspended ceiling of not less than one-hour fire resistive construction as specified hereinafter in paragraph (c) and such ceiling shall be not less than six (6) inches distant from any part of the roof construction.

The above fireproofing shall be determined by ratings based on Standard Fire Tests made in accord with the "Standard Method of Fire Tests of Building Construction and Materials", ASTM E119, NFPA 251 or U.L. 263."

Section 4. That Sections 20.10.420, 20.12.040, and 20.31.080 of the Lincoln Municipal Code, as hitherto existing, and all other ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict herewith be and they are hereby repealed.

Nixon Sees Growing Skepticism Of Big Government's Usefulness

New York (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Thursday night Americans are developing "a healthy skepticism about the usefulness of big government in modern society."

In a speech to the first public affairs conference of the National Institutional Conference Board, Nixon said, "Scholars are discovering, sometimes to their surprise and consternation, that big government has rolled up an impressive record of failure."

As examples, he listed the agriculture program, and the federal urban renewal program, which he said has "clumsily destroyed more low-cost housing than it created" while private enterprise "quietly dwarfed its meager accomplishments."

'Tacit Admission'

Nixon said that beneath what he called the "flamboyant 'war on poverty,'" lies the "tacit admission that 30 years of expensive federal effort to eliminate dependency has, if anything, increased and institutionalized it."

He cited two trends which he said run counter to "bigger government, higher taxes and an ever-growing federal role in the life of America."

One, he asserted, is a "new realism" about federal programs. He described the other as "the almost sudden rediscovery of a forgotten alternative to government action on public problems."

'People's Sector'

This alternative Nixon labeled the "people's sector." It includes hospitals, garden clubs, universities, lodges, private welfare agencies, churches, trade associations, national health organizations, labor unions, foundations, research institutes and private schools, he said.

Nixon said this area is "reemerging as a powerful potential force in American affairs.

He said the country's best hope for the future is "systematic upgrading of the performance of the independent people's sector."

Pairs' Private Poverty War Gets Pinched

New York (UPI) — The Queens District attorney Thursday filed fraud charges against two Negroes who collected up to $200 a day in donations for the Alabama civil rights drive. He said they used the money for their own personal "war on poverty."

He said the pair collected more than $6,000 and, instead of sending the money to Alabama, diverted it to their own personal bank accounts.

O'Conner said two detectives arrested the pair after he was called by a shopowner who said there was "something phony" about the two alleged rights workers.

O'Conner said the detectives confiscated two bank accounts and an adding machine. Entries in the bankbooks indicated that they collected as much as $200 a day soliciting in Queens, Manhattan, Nassau and Westchester.

Final Contracts For Scottsbluff Hospital Okayed

The federal government has given final approval to contracts for a $3.44 million hospital and nurses' training facility at Scottsbluff, a state health department official said Thursday.

Verne Pangborn, hospital division director, said he expected construction at the West Nebraska General Hospital to begin immediately.

Pangborn said about $1,360,000 in federal Hill-Burton hospital construction funds will be available for the project.

Assembly-Line Jails

Bonn (AP)—A prefabricated jail is being erected at nearby Cologne to house 1,100 prisoners. Individual cells designed by a Swedish architect are put together on an assembly line, and—when completed with washstand, mirror, toilet, radiator and barred windows—are swung into place by a crane. Officials report the state still needs cells for 5,000.

Two Brothers Smothered By Dirt Cave-In

Milpitas, Calif. (AP) — Two young brothers suffocated Wednesday night as they were covered by falling earth in a small cave.

They were Bryan Burton, 9, and Steven, 8.

A third brother, Gordon Burton, 12, was rescued Thursday by firemen and was reported in good condition at a San Jose Hospital.

The boys were reported missing at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday by their father. Arthur Burton.

Gordon said that as they started out, he heard a rumble and the dirt caved in.

Gordon, buried up to his chest, managed to free his arms. He called loudly through the night, but not until 8:30 a.m. Thursday did anyone hear him.

Rescuers freed Gordon and discovered the other boys were dead.

CARE Aid Sent To Quake Victims

Santiago, Chile (AP)—A Pan American jet airliner brought 21½ tons of tents, bedding and children's clothing to Santiago from McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., for distribution to victims of the March 28 earthquake.

The clothing and bedding were from CARE, a U.S.-based relief organization, and the tents were from U.S. government supplies.

Omaha (AP) — Air Chief Marshal Sir Frederick Scherger, chairman of the chiefs of staff committee of Australia, arrived at Strategic Air Command headquarters Thursday for a command briefing and tour of headquarters.

Other members of the party included Lady Scherger, Maj. Gen. Charles E. Long of the Royal Australian Army and head of the Australian joint services staff in Washington, and Mrs. Long.

The party will leave SAC Friday for Fort Worth, Tex., and a visit to the General Dynamics Co. plant there.

Malawi Girls Banned From Artificial Beauty

Blantyre, Malawi (AP)—Malawian girls were banned from using lipstick, nail-varnish and hair-straighteners because they are "beautiful enough" without artificial aids.

The ban came from Mrs. Margaret Mlanga, chairman of the Malawi League of Women—often dubbed the "Amazon army" — who declared there is no need for them to copy other races.

Black Market Books Add Bad

New Delhi (AP)—India is warring against book pirates, who some times mislead children into thinking 2 plus 2 equals 3.

The education ministry, noting that producers of black market copies of textbooks are notoriously illiterate and careless with figures, said the racket has become nationwide and the government has given police special powers to wipe it out.

Communist-Aide Congolese Rebel Head Is Defector

Leopoldville, The Congo (AP) A newspaper reported that Egide Bocheley-Davidson, a leader of the Communist-backed rebellion in the northeast, has defected and is now in Leopoldville.

The Courrier d'Afrique attributed the report to "a source close to Premier Moise Tshombe." Bocheley-Davidson is an associate of Christophe Gbenye, self-styled "president of the People's Republic of the Congo."

Bocheley maintained an administrative base for the rebellion in Brazzaville, across the Congo River in the former French Congo. Bocheley has been reported backed by the Russians, while Gbenye is supposed to enjoy the support of the Communist Chinese.

Pioneer French Aviator Is Dead

Paris (AP)—Roger Sommer, 88, a pioneer French aviator, died Thursday.

Sommer beat the record of Wilbur Wright for duration of a flight when he stayed in the air 2 hours, 27 minutes and 15 seconds in 1909. He also claimed to have been the first flier to carry a passenger when he took his son, Francois, aloft in 1909.

He dropped aerial bombs in the Balkan War in 1911.

Guiana Emergency End Up To Burnham

Georgetown, British Guiana (AP)—Power to create and rescind emergency measures in British Guiana has been restored to the elected government by an order in council approved by Queen Elizabeth II.

It was noted, however, that there has been no official end to the emergency declared when the British governor took over June 13, 1964, at the height of communal disorders. Prime Minister Forbes Burnham now can extend or end the emergency.

INDIANS AGREE TO PAKISTANI BORDER CEASE-FIRE REQUEST

An announcement by Foreign Minister Swaran Singh touched off an uproar in parliament because Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said three days ago there would be no peace talks until Pakistan vacated two border posts which India claims.

The Pakistani request for a ceasefire and talks was conveyed to the Indian envoy in Karachi Thursday and the Indian government's acceptance was conveyed after a cabinet meeting.

Renewed fighting along the frontier between Indian and Pakistani troops broke out six days ago at the Indian posts of Kanjoarkot and Ding.

The area has been the scene of border skirmishes since 1947 when the subcontinent was partitioned.

India claimed 34 Pakistani soldiers were killed and four others captured in an engagement Monday after eight Pakistani armored cars swept across the frontier

Pakistan denied the Indian claim and said four Indians were killed and 35 captured.

Singh told parliament there has been "a comparative lull over the past 60 hours except for some desultory firing."

Opposition members greeted Singh's statement with angry shouts because of the change in the government position.

Idaho's Worst Wreck Kills 10

Massacre Rocks, Idaho (AP)—Ten persons were killed Thursday in a head-on crash of two autos near this southern Idaho point on the Oregon Trail.

It was the worst highway accident in Idaho history.

He identified the dead in the other car as Claude Warford, 22; Darlene Warford, 20; Zona Long Warford, 46; Elmer Warford, 52; Alice Warford, 15, and Dorothy Fay Warford, 9.

State To 'Protect' Counties

He said Nance County will not be required to adopt property valuations higher than other counties in the wake of reports that a private reappraisal has increased the county's real estate valuation 58.89% for tax purposes.

The law requires that the tax commissioner, who is a member of the state equalization board, must approve all changes.

"The board will either raise the valuations of all other counties up to the level of Nance County, or temporarily reduce Nance County valuations until the other counties have finished their reappraisals," he said.

He said new Adams County evaluations won't be effective for the coming tax year. Thirty-three counties are currently reappraising under the mandatory state reappraisals act of 1963.

Dworak also said his office is supporting two bills in the Legislature which he feels will give county assessors better tools for determining actual value of property for tax purposes.

They are LB87, prescribing that the value of property for tax purposes be based on market value in the ordinary course of trade, and LB527, requiring all deeds or conveyances filed with the register of deeds show actual consideration. A proposed amendment would make the cost information for confidential use of tax officials only.

Tax Exemption Case Rehearing Request Slated

State Supreme Court Clerk George Turner reported Thursday the court has set May 7 for presentation of oral arguments on a request for a rehearing of an important tax case.

The court ruled that the state's tax exemption laws should be construed liberally, unless the Legislature takes action to the contrary.

The bill, LB872, was attacked by tax exempt organizations at a public hearing but action on the measure is still pending before the Revenue Committee.

The Supreme Court issued the ruling in upholding the tax exempt status of property of the Lincoln Woman's Club. The property had been placed on the tax rolls in 1962 by the City of Lincoln, and the club appealed to the courts.

The city is asking the high court to reconsider its decision.

State To 'Protect' Counties

State Tax Commissioner George Dworak indicated Thursday the State Board of Equalization will protect counties completing real estate reappraisals ahead of the statewide 1973 deadline

He said Nance County will not be required to adopt property valuations higher than other counties in the wake of reports that a private reappraisal has increased the county's real estate valuation 58.89% for tax purposes

The law requires that the tax commissioner who is a member of the state equalization board, must approve all changes

"The board will either raise the valuations of all other counties up to the level of Nance County, or temporarily reduce Nance County valuations until the other counties have finished their reappraisals," he said

He said new Adams County evaluations won't be effective for the coming tax year. Thirty-three counties are currently reappraising under the mandatory state reappraisals act of 1963.

Dworak also said his office is supporting two bills in the Legislature which he feels will give county assessors better tools for determining actual value of property for tax purposes.
